Rock Island May be Absorbed

Merger of Midwest System With Southwestern Group Predicted by Officials

President Sproule Defends Latest Consolidation at Conference in El Paso

EL PASO, (Tex.), July 14.—Prediction that the Rock Island System will be consolidated with the Southern Pacific lines after the El Paso and Southwestern Company becomes a partner of the latter organization was made here today by T. M. Schumacher of New York, president of the Southwestern, and William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific lines.

"It is just as certain as the proposed merger of the Southern Pacific and Southwestern that the Rock Island will be included in the group," Mr. Schumacher announced.

Sproule stated that a merger with the Rock Island would be of considerable advantage as it would give the Southern Pacific direct connection in Chicago and would be a great thing for the Southwest in general.

The Southern Pacific president pointed out that the merger of the Central Pacific case, it was agreed that the Southern Pacific would acquire that portion of the Rock Island operating west of the Missouri River to Colorado.

"It will be to our interest to have active relations with the Rock Island line that connects with the Southwestern and points east of the Missouri River," said Mr. Sproule.

EXTENSION PLANNED
More light was thrown on the underlying reasons for the proposed merger when Mr. Schumacher, in answer to questions, said that it was the intention of the company to file a request for permission to build the Southwestern into Phoenix and with an extension to Los Angeles being considered.

During internal conferences with city officials and members of the merger protest committee, it was stated that for two and one-half years the Southwestern had flatly refused to sell out, and that after it purchased the Tucson Phoenix Tidewater route, and announced plans to build into Phoenix, the Southern Pacific went to the owners with an offer to buy. The reply was that the Southwestern would not sell out for a request for some sort of an offer.

The Southwestern proposed a partnership and it was accepted, according to Mr. Sproule.

LINK DISSOLVED
Reports of ownership of Texas and Pacific stock by capitalists associated with the Phelps-Dodge interests, who control the Southwestern, were also aired by city officials. Questions were asked if they owned from 15 to 20 percent of the Texas and Pacific stock at the time, but when it was learned the 50's, two years ago, they sold out, with the exception of William C. Saborn, on the advice of Mr. Schumacher.

"I think the Missouri Pacific owns the controlling interest in the Texas and Pacific now," said Mr. Schumacher.

Instead of being detrimental to the proposed merger, the elimination of a competitive line, the proposed merger of the Southern Pacific and El Paso and Southwestern should bring more business by opening up new trade fields, according to Sproule.

Line that will give El Paso business that is going north now from Phoenix over the Santa Fe," said Mr. Sproule. He asserted that there is no such thing as no competition for railroads today, when asked if he would not prefer that the Santa Fe be a monopoly.

Des Dames during the war, representing the French military aviation, said that the French military aviation was a monopoly.

STILL COMPETITIVE
"The Southern Pacific would be competitive in that commodities it carries are competitive with other lines," declared Mr. Sproule.

The merger will not affect competition in the Southwest. They will still have the Texas and Pacific and the Santa Fe after the merger is completed.

If any town in the Southwest should object to the proposed merger, it should be Albuquerque, N. M., as the new main line through Phoenix cuts the Salt River Valley in direct connection with El Paso, it was pointed out. At present that business is moving through Albuquerque over the Santa Fe. A railroad prosper only as the territory it serves prospers, said Mr. Sproule.

SCORES FEARED DEAD IN FLAMING FOREST TRAPS

Thirty-five Missing in Washington, Others in British Columbia; Many Cut Off in Idaho

More than 125 persons are unaccounted for and fears are felt that scores may be dead in separate forest fires raging in the forests of Washington, Idaho and British Columbia, according to dispatches received here late last night. Flames were reported to have trapped seventy-six persons in Idaho, thirty-five in Washington and thirty in British Columbia.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

SPOKANE (Wash.) July 14.—Thirty-five persons, including eleven children, are believed to have lost their lives in a forest fire which today swept over Wheeler's Mill, six miles west of Blue Slide in Northern Pend Oreille county, according to a telephone message from Blue Slide this evening.

The missing are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wheeler, and four children; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wheeler, and three children; Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Dyer, and five children; Miss Nellie Dickson, a homesteader and several mill workers.

The report says that the families tried to make their way out in automobiles when it became apparent that the mill was doomed, but the flames forced them to turn back. There is a possibility that they may have found safety in the mill pond, the message said.

The home of Elmer Arnold was reported to have been destroyed, but Mr. Arnold and his children escaped. The fire this evening was about three-quarters of a mile west of Blue Slide and drove toward the settlement by a strong wind, seriously threatening the town, the planing mill and the Lanch White Pine Lumber yards.

One and other neighboring towns which were threatened last afternoon were believed to be safe tonight, if the wind does not change. There is no communication tonight with Lost Creek.

IDAHO DANGER ZONE
(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

KEELOGG (Idaho) July 14.—Several persons are unaccounted for, the mill of the Nabob mine is believed destroyed, and other mining properties are in grave danger from the fire on Eddy Creek, about four miles south of this city. Supt. Percy Dunlap, of the Nabob mine, brought to the hospital suffering from severe burns received in his efforts to escape from the flames.

Men drafted from the streets of Los Angeles were being rushed to the scene and more will be sent today.

The forest fire in Soledad Canyon was reported out last night and in Little San Martin Canyon in Ventura county the fire is reported under control. A report that a forest fire was raging in Piru Canyon could not be verified.

CALL FOR MEN
Federal foresters have about 150 men on the west side of Fish Creek Canyon fighting the flames. The canyon is the fire line for the fire burning west toward Ridge Route. Today it is planned to establish a Federal base camp at Fish Canyon. A call for several hundred additional men will be made today.

County Forester Flintham stated last night that 200 more men are expected from Los Angeles today. Men sent to the fire-invested regions yesterday were drafted from the streets of Los Angeles to fight the fire peril that has reached a point where heroic measures are necessary.

The emergency fire fighters were rounded up at the Plaza, where they were loaded into motor lorries and rushed to the fire zone. Several big trucks pulled up at the main street side of the square, opposite the Plaza church, where groups of laborers were congregated. Deputies of County Forester Flintham directed the evacuation to them in Spanish and English. Then men were offered 25 cents an hour for their services. The trucks were soon filled up and on their way to Pine Canyon, where a camp for the fighters has been constructed. Only those of husky build with good, serviceable shoes were accepted for service.

HOPE SHINES

Solve Problem

Entente Dignitaries Gather
Tomorrow to Put Dawes Program in Effect

Ambassador Kellogg Will be America's Representative at Epochal Meeting

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS)
LONDON, July 14.—The inter-allied conference which will assemble in the Foreign Office Wednesday morning to put the Dawes report on reparations into effect, will open in an atmosphere of optimism.

When the tentative arrangements for the meeting were concluded between Premiers Macdonald and Herriot at Paris last Thursday the French Premier characterized the occasion as the best day for the Entente since the armistice was signed, and today observers declared they hoped that within a fortnight the deliberations would be productive of an arrangement which will end once and for all the quarrels and misunderstandings that have been continuous among the nations of Europe since the hostilities of the great war ended and the Allied powers began their struggles to get war compensation out of Germany.

Such hopes as these have been expressed prior to numerous other conferences of the Allied Statesmen during the last six years, but disappointments have followed as the meetings were themselves out, or abruptly broke up.

NEW HOPE INSPIRED
The fundamental difficulties of the reparations problem are still unresolved, but the unofficial participation of the United States through the experts who worked in Paris for two months is expected to produce the recommendations now universally known as the Dawes report has given new hope to the Allies and German alike, and launched the seemingly perennial reparations problem on an entirely new plane.

The Allies and Germany jumped to accept the experts' report in principle and Wednesday Mr.
Macdonald, Mr. Herriot, M. Thunderson, the Belgian Premier, and other allied plenipotentiaries, together with Ambassador Kellogg, the official representative of the United States empowered to act in behalf of American interests, will gather around the big horseshoe table in the Foreign Office oversight of Downing street to give political effect to the businesslike economic findings of Gen. Dawes and his colleagues.

LARGE GROUP TO ATTEND
There will be more than 150 delegates, experts and statesmen present when the British Prime Minister welcomes them to the conference and hears the views of the leading plenipotentiaries.

Great Britain, France, Italy,
Belgium and Germany will be represented at the conference, as well as several delegates.

Ambassador Kellogg will be the only accredited American representative of the United States, but throughout the deliberations Col. James A.
Logan, Jr., who has followed the committee on the German budget and currency problem, and was the general's chief aide in drawing up the experts' proposals.

YOUNG TO ASSIST
Mr. Young's mission in London is entirely unofficial, but the American Ambassador had a long conference with him and Col. Logan this afternoon and Mr. Young indicated that he was willing to put all his knowledge and experience at the service of the conference.

After the opening ceremonies the conference will busy itself with the agenda which will be based on the exchange of views between Macdonald and Herriot had in Paris on the 9th inst., embodied in a statement the two points of which, as Mr. Macdonald informed the House of Commons this afternoon, were purposely left for the final decision of the conference.

The agenda will be strictly confined to the Dawes report. The questions of inter-allied debts and French security will be considered at a later inter-allied meeting.

Shasta Springs and Shasta Retreat.

This fire was believed under control several days ago, but when it became more menacing, a hurry call was issued for additional aid at the forestry station at Mount Shasta City.

TWO DISTINCT FIRES
Two distinct fires are burning near Mount Shasta City. One started in the vicinity of the headwaters of the Sacramento River, including a lumber and farm which nearly the principal source stream of the river. This fire burned up a mile and a half, and covered foot mountain, turned and burned down the northeastern side, forestalling the agricultural district.
The town. Valiant efforts on the part of the firefighters diverted the direction of the flames, which swept through the heavy timber and the general vicinity of the Shasta Springs resort. Firefighters checked on both sides of the fire between the two towns.

About 100 men are fighting the devastating flames which have been sweeping everything in their path near Oak Park, the eastern extremity of Scott's Valley. A second fire also is burning in Scott's Valley near Callahan, the principal gateway to the Shasta National Forest.
The fire is sweeping in the direction of Port Jones. A section of this fire was moving toward the Hillside Creek, which is in the vicinity of the town.

Practically the entire town is in the general path of the flames is Dunsmuir, the southern county terminal of the Southern Pacific Company.
Weed, the northern county terminal, has sent all available men to Mount Shasta City, six miles away.

Fighters today reported that the flames will be checked within an hour, but not until a serious damage has been wrought to virgin timber, and sawed logs in the mill district.

FEAR THURTY
TRAPPED BY FLAMES

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
NELSON, (R. C.) July 14.—A bush fire in Porcupine Creek in the Salmon Valley may have trapped thirty men, members of the Nelson Colony, and their thirty-eight horses. Swept by a gale, the flames wiped out the Douk-houson road, and the Nelson Colony men and horses did not get out by the South Fork of the Porcupine to Silver Lake and then to the Nelson Colony, which is believed to be doomed. It has been raining clinders in Nelson all afternoon.

BLAZE IN SIERRA FOREST SWEEPING ON

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
FRESNO, July 14.—Threatening to sweep into a full stand of government timber, a new forest fire in the Sierra National Forest tonight is raging uncontrolled over about 3500 acres of brush according to the report of the Forest Supervisor M. A. Benedict of North Fork.

About fifty men are combating the blaze at a line at the edge of the timber, which previously had been prepared by rangers as a fire line. If this line holds tonight rangers expect to have the flames under control tomorrow morning.
A small ranch house in the direct path of the flames was destroyed.

FIGHT NEW FIRE
IN MARIPOSA COUNTY

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—A new fire was reported late today in the brush country south of Mariposa county, on the border of the Sierra National Forest. The fire had not yet entered the forest, according to the last report received here, but was spreading rapidly. There were 125 men fighting it.

SEQUOIA FLAMES
ARE HELD IN CONTROL

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
CALIFORNIA HOT SPRINGS,
July 14.—Everything continues favorable in control of the Bull Run fire in Sequoia Forest, raging since June 20, except in one section, where rolling country makes usual methods hard to employ, according to latest word from there. The Stanislaus rangers and Ranger Berry of the Forest office at San Francisco have returned to their posts. The number of men has been reduced to 24.
The fire chief has no interference of lines while the fire burns out, unless unfavorable shows arise.

FORTUNE WON BY "VISION"
Chicago Trader Foresaw Short Corn Crop and Began to Buy; Now He Has Profit of $1,860,000

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

CHICAGO, July 14.—Arthur Cutten of Downer's Grove, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, had a "vision" which he has cashed in for $1,860,000. Months ago Mr. Cutten correctly foresaw that the 1924 corn crop, normally around 3,000,000,000 bushels, would be short because of the wet, cold spring which greatly retarded planting and subsequent growth, with the danger that early frost would damage seriously the bulk of the crop.

Consequently, he began to accumulate corn. Eight weeks ago, when July corn was selling at 15 cents, his already enormous holdings looked like a sock of elephants on his hands.

Saturday corn sold at 10.33¢ and things looked much brighter for Mr. Cutten, who kept on adding to his holdings. At the rate he bought and at the rate at which he closed out his line today, he has made $1,860,000, but the chances are the sum will be much larger.

The increase in corn values covered the greater part of Western Washington, beginning on Sunday night in the Gray's Harbor country and extending to the Seattle and Snohomish and Skagit counties, materially have helped the farmers in the area. The wheat and barley crops, which are the mainstay of the Washington Farmers' Association, announced here today.

For the time being, danger to our standing virgin timber has been greatly relieved, Mr. Joy said. "The danger, however, is by no means over and the greatest vigilance must be maintained."

New fires in grain timber are reported in Kitsap and Mason counties, attributed to motorists throwing lighted matches or cigarettes from their cars. Joy said.
All brush fires in King county are reported under control.

FIRE SUMMARY
Following is 1924 fire summary to the 10th inst:

Since January a total of 339 forest fires in Washington have occurred in California. Six hundred and fifty-one of these were in the state of Washington and 188 on State and private land.

One hundred twenty-six thousand eight hundred and thirty-three acres of forest land were burned, resulting in a loss of timber forage from crops and including the loss of timber valued at $1,000,000. Forty thousand, two hundred and fifty acres of the burned-over area was Federal forest land and the remainder the holdings of private individuals and the State.

At 451 fires that occurred in the national forests, 413, or 91 per cent were caused by careless smokers, campers and brush burners.

At a conference held later between Supervisor Charlton and the County Board of Supervisors it was decided to send a party of men to the mouth of all of the principal mountain canyons. These men will be in charge of the fire prevention work in the canyons.

Supervisors will be forced to register, and motorists' license will be stamped with an hour of consideration it was decided not to close the resort regions unless the situation grows considerably worse.
The fire prevention work in the canyons will be a long one.

GUARD FOR SHEEP
"Don't let anybody touch anything," he warned his mechanics, and then pleaded with the airdrome officials to keep the crowd back from the field.

The French officials came forward, introducing themselves, and Lieut. Smith, and the rest of the house, where long rows of glasses were set out with numerous bottles of champagne and little cakes.

Photographers held up the party or else stepped back, and then shooting millions of shots and then Lieut. Smith, his face smeared with perspiration, went inside for an hour.

"We left Vienna at 5:35 this morning, landing in Strasbourg, where we were met by a car and before noon," he said. "The morning flight was uneventful, but after leaving Strasbourg at 1:15 we ran into a storm, rain and low clouds, which delayed us through trying to keep together.
We landed at a small airfield and were met by a car and a cigarette, lighting a nice and one from Constantinople with a relish."

"I never smoke in the ship," he explained, blowing out the first puff.

The French and American officials went to entertain the Yankee flyers, but they went to rest and hesitated considerably over numerous invitations given them.

"Where can I get a pair of pants? I lost all my others in the storm," he asked. "I have no overalls," said Lieut. Smith, pointing to the grease-stained khaki trousers he was wearing.

MAKING UP TIME
Replying to a speech of welcome from Laurent Eynac, Lieut. Smith said:

"We have been looking forward to this trip for a long time, and hate to leave so soon, but we must keep going and try to catch up with our schedule."

The men were twenty-nine days behind their schedule, but already have made up eleven days, and hope to catch up ten more on their Atlantic flight, although certain supplies have not yet reached Ie-land and Greenland.

Tomorrow Gen. Pershing will receive the heroes, and the French Air Ministry will offer them a banquet. Tonight, they say, they are going right to bed and rest up.
Lieut. Smith stated he has nearly recovered from a slight attack of dysentery and is feeling fine. He expects to place a wreath of flowers on the unknown soldier's tomb tomorrow. He intended to drop flowers this afternoon over the rich of Triumph but was told that the flowers, obtained in Strasbourg, which were tucked away in a corner of the cockpit.

"We found the way to Paris easily, reading our map and picking up the landmarks," said Lieut.
Smith. "We thought the worst part of the trip was through the Aegean Islands, and we do not expect much difficulty in making the Atlantic flight, which is the longest hop—about 600 miles."

BRITISH PREPARE WELCOME FOR FLYERS
(BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
LONDON, July 14.—When the American round-the-world aviators land at Croyder they will be met by Col. F. K. McLean, chairman of the Royal Aero Club, and Commander H. E. Perrin, secretary of the club.

After the flyers take their planes to Humber for repairs, they will return to London where they will be guests at the Aero Club's banquet. Among the invited guests are Ambassador Frank R. Kellogg, the Dukes of Sutherland and Atholl, Lord Thompson, secretary of Air, and Sir Hugh Trenchard.

The night the aviators arrive they will be given an informal dinner by the Air Ministry. As the planes are being flown faster than ever the Aero Club is unable to fix the date for the banquet.
The week's overhauling at Brough includes the replacement of engines for the North American trip, though the motors now in the planes are working perfectly. The installation of pontoons instead of wheels for the flight to Iceland and Greenland.

FIRST INDIAN REGISTERS
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
GLOBE (Ariz.) July 14.—Manuel Victor of Rice, an Apache living on the San Carlos reservation, has registered for the fall election, and is believed the first Indian in Arizona to take advantage of the new Congressional act that makes the redskin a voter. He was educated at Grand Junction, Colo., and has read and writes English fluently. Two registration officers have been detailed to the reservation, on which there may be 400
Indian voters.

$15,000,000 into the territory tributary to the city, I cannot see how they can afford to turn down such a proposition."

Mr. Sproule's relation to the Southern Pacific will be much like that of Detroit to the New York Central lines, Mr. Sproule asserted.

RATES NOT AFFECTED
When the question of freight and passenger rates was raised, Mr.
Sproule said the new grouping does not contemplate the raising or lowering of rates.

"It is probable, however," he added, "that economies may be effected which will eventually be reflected in railroad rates."

"The merger of the lines will be of greater benefit to El Paso than to Chicago and Los Angeles," Mr.
Sproule declared. "El Paso will become the hub of the Southern Pacific operations in the Southwest," he explained.

Mr. Schumacher replied to a question as to why the El Paso and Southwestern was built that the road had been constructed principally to serve the Phelps-Podges mining interests in Arizona, and that Southern Pacific raises a considerable bearing on the construction of the road.

Two parties of engineers are in the field making the preliminary survey of the proposed main line of the Southern Pacific through Phoenix, Mr. Sproule stated.

Walter Douglas, president of the Phelps-Podges Corporation, and Mr.
Sproule will leave here tomorrow for Phoenix, where a conference will be held with the city and State officials with regard to the proposed main line.

Members of the board of directors this afternoon refused to accept the recommendations made by James G. McNary, prominent banker, and chairman of the merger investigation committee sent to New York to take a positive stand in favor of the proposed merger.

"I think the chamber is very derelict in its activities if it does not take a stand in favor of the consolidation of the Rock Island as well as the Southwest system with the Southern Pacific," Mr.
McNary stated to the directors.

WARREN TO QUIT

he was not to remain as Ambassador but to carry on the work necessary to arrive at a mutual understanding between the two countries. He announced that he will resign after a conference with President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes.

"I leave," Mr. Warren said,
"knowing that the relations now existing between the United States and Mexico are cordial and friendly, that both people desire justice to prevail in all their relations."

"Since 1881 there has not been a to negotiate such a treaty with the United States, and I am confident that the Senate will ap-

TRIBUTE BY ORRAGON
President Orregon, discussing the Ambassador, saying: "There is nothing abnormal about this; it is merely a diplomatic movement."

I lament Ambassador Warren's deto penetrate what has grown to be known as the Mexican case, and he has been able to convince himself that there is a great moral basis for the social program of the had their hands tied by instructions received from the oil association in New York, making it impossible for them to take an independent stand in conferences with the strikers, and that settlement of the strike does not suit the association.

"In his opinion," said President Orregon, "the prospects of settlement of the strike are still distant."

The battle for the Southern California open golf championship, which will take place next week, takes on inter-sectional importance with the announcement by Chester Lyday yesterday that Northern California will have two strong representatives competing in the 72-hole medal play event on the Los Angeles Country Club links.

Harold Sampson, who finished just near the leaders in the State open last winter, and Abe Espinosa, who competed in both the national open and British open tournaments this summer, have sent in their entries, according to Lyday, who has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the S.C.G.A. following the resignation of Eric Barker.

Opposing the north's representatives will be the cream of Southern California's amateur and professional talent. Among the pros Hunt Martin, Dick Linacre, Tom Stevens, and Chick Fraser loom up as the most likely winners, while strong competition will undoubtedly be furnished by Mel Smith, Ernest Martin, Gwynn Bowen, Harry Frazier and numerous other accomplished professionals are possible victors.

AMATEURS, TOO

In addition to this imposing collection of professionals, the south will have several amateurs of distinction in the tournament. Willie Hunter, who has just returned from Vancouver where he was the finalist in the Pacific-Northwest championships, will undoubtedly play through, and is considered an extremely dangerous competitor.

George Von Elm, also a scratch man, is expected to compete, as is Frank Godchaux, while Dr. Paul Hunter, Southern California champ, may be seen in action in his first tournament since he regained the amateur title.

Entries must be in the hands of either Lyday or E. B. Turf, president of the S.C.G.A., by Friday afternoon, as pairings for both the amateur-pro foursomes which precede the tournament Sunday and the tournament proper will be drawn up at 5 p.m. Friday at the Los Angeles Country Club.

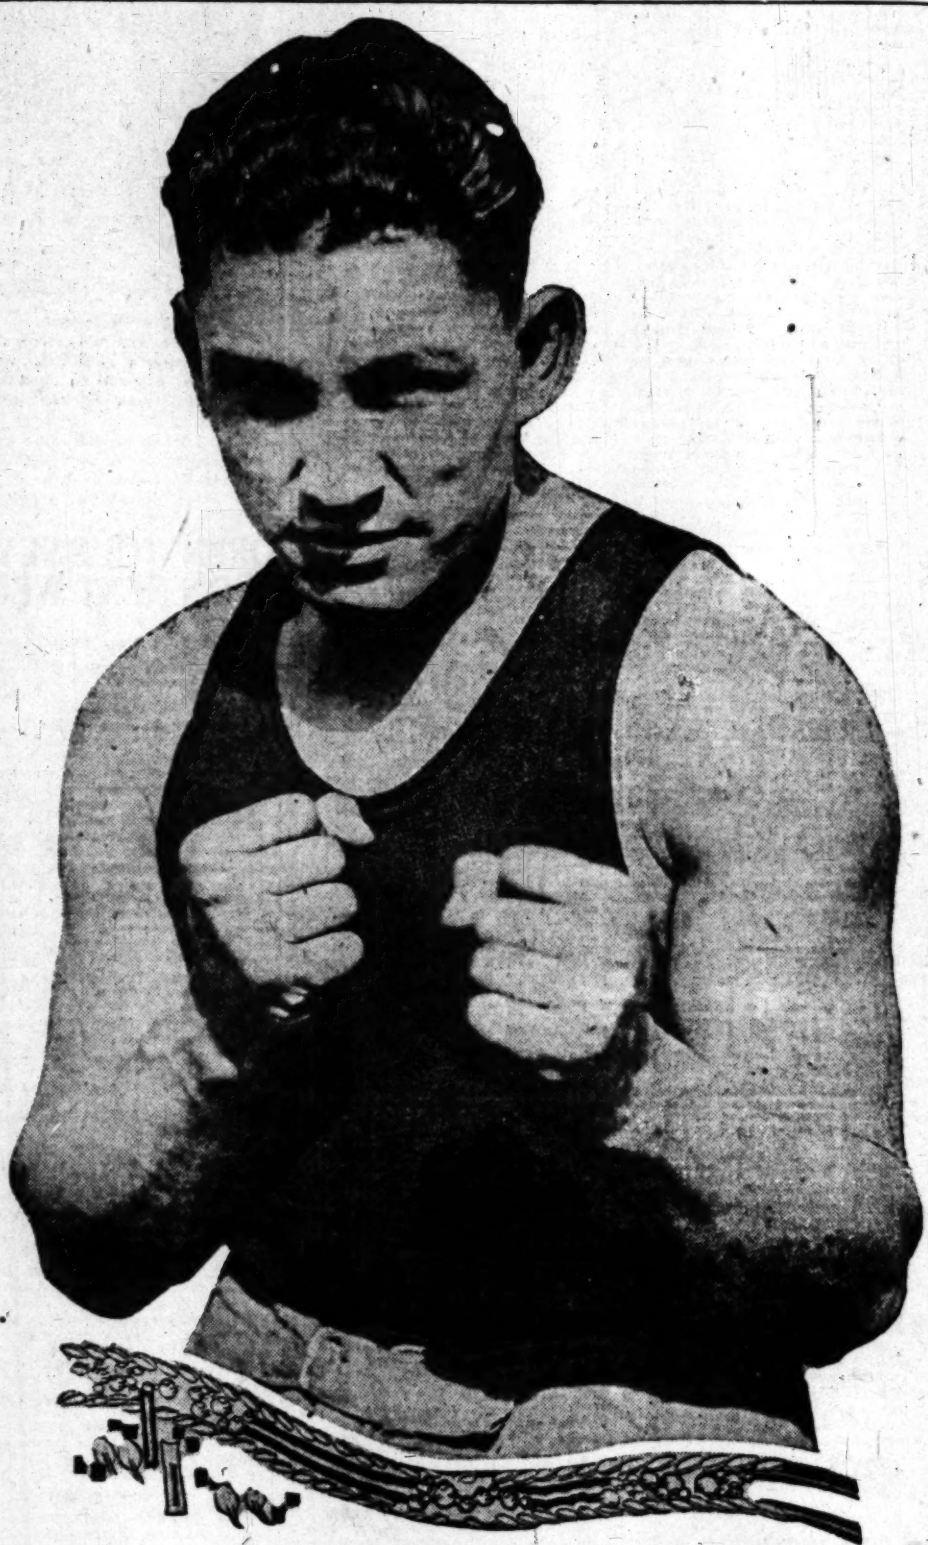

Thursday and Friday the Los Angeles links will be open to players who will compete in the championship event.

The junior championship tournament of the S.C.G.A., postponed from last week-end, will not be held until fall, according to Lyday, because of the fact that most of Bert Colima, the Whittier flash, who battles Dave Shade tonight in what promises to be one of the most sensational bouts ever put on locally. They will fight at catchweights.

COLIMA AND SHADE MINGLE

Sensational Bout Expected at Vernon Tonight When Headliners Collide in Main Event

Bert Colima, considered the class of the Pacific Coast in the four-round game, and Dave Shade, a strong contender for the world's welterweight championship, will battle tonight at Doyle's Vernon Arena in what appears to be one of the best bouts ever cooked up for the enjoyment of local boxing bugs. Colima, a middleweight, will have an advantage of a few pounds over his opponent, as the boxers will battle at catchweight.

Shade is figured to win by the wisecracks, due principally to his convincing victory over Bermondsey Billy Wells at Madison Square Garden several months ago, while Colima dropped two out of three decisions to Wells in local exhibitions. However, when Colima is right he is practically unbeatable, being a hard puncher and lightning fast. If Colima is having a good night, he may put Shade away, although the latter is a slight favorite. Colima's slight weight advantage may stand him in good stead.

The two fighters were originally scheduled to tangle last week, but Colima injured his hand in a bout the week before, and asked for a postponement. He declares himself in the best of condition for four hard rounds and is confident that he can take Shade's measure. The advance sale indicates that the Vernon Coliseum will be jammed to the rafters tonight, as the attraction is the biggest offered in months.

Wadhams has lined up a fancy preliminary card, George Lavigne, one of the cleverest welterweights in the business, will box the hard-hitting Jimmy Marcus in the semi-final, Frankie Grandetta, who lost a decision to Ernie Hood two months ago, will be the underdog.

SUZANNE'S TOOTSIES FRIGID, SAY AMERICAN TENNIS FANS

BY HENRY WALES

(BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
[Copyright, 1924, by the Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, July 14.—Suzanne Lenglen declined to enter the Olympic Games tennis tournament through fear of defeat by Helen Wills rather than through illness, American tennis fans are declaring today following the strange revelation that Suzanne played several matches yesterday afternoon. At the same hour as the Olympic tournament opened Monday, Lenglen was slamming the ball about in a match on the private courts at Maisons Laftite, on the estate of Frank Gould, the American millionaire.

Although she played against easy opponents her showing is reported to be excellent, giving rise to rumors that it was the prowess of the American girl champion which led Suzanne to scratch her name from the Olympics at the last minute.

ROCKY KANSAS PUT TO SLEEP

Luis Vincentini Knocks Him

Chilean Battler Finishes
Buffalo Battler

Goes Down for Count After Wild Right to Jaw

(BY A. P. MORTIMER)

NEW YORK, July 14.—Luis Vincentini knocked out Rocky Kansas, Buffalo lightweight, in the eleventh round of a scheduled fifteen-round match at the Queensboro Athletic Club tonight. The end came in a sensational finish, in which the Chilean rallied to the highest peak of his pugilistic career and stopped one of the most rugged lightweights in the ring.

The knockout blow, a series of rights and lefts which staggered the Buffalo boy and forced him to retreat to the ropes, came at an unexpected time, as Vincentini had the round previous measured his length on the canvas when one of Kansas' wild rights hit him flush on the jaw. The end came after two minutes and sixteen seconds of fighting in the eleventh round.

Up to the point of the knockout the fight had assumed a distinct Kansas tone. The Buffalo lad had the better of the match and was apparently well on the road to victory.

The eleventh round opened strong, Vincentini coming back wonderfully well after his trip to the floor in the tenth round. He rushed Rocky to the ropes and poured gloves at the American in a madman's fusillade of blows which reeled off the swinging arms of the Chilean with triphammer rapidity.

Kansas crouched, his hands rising to his head to protect him from the fury of the Chilean's storm of blows.

But Vincentini, spending victory, bored in and knocked Kansas down with a well-measured right. The Buffalo lad was as surprised as the shocked crowd. He took one count and was up, but Vincentini was on top of him and dived away at the groggy Kansas from long range, Kansas finally sinking to the floor.

At the count of nine he attempted to rise, got up to his feet, but before Vincentini could bound across the ring to him he reeled around and sank into a weakened heap right in front of the timekeeper's stand.

Kansas had survived the ordeal perfectly up to this point. He was unmarked and apparently full of vim and vigor. There is apparently no record of the bout during the eleventh round. But in that brief two minutes and sixteen seconds of fighting Vincentini meted out a terrific dose of punishment that started the blood from Kansas' nose, blackened both eyes and maimed his facial appearance. Vincentini emerged from the bout unmarked.

Low Paluso of Salt Lake City, Jack Dempsey's lightweight protégé, and Joe Silvers, Brooklyn lightweight, fought a clean, hard and fast six-round draw. This was the last of the preliminary card.

AUSTRALIAN SWIM STARS ALL ALONE

Yanks Have No Chance
Against Borg and Charlton in 1500-Meter Race

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS)

PARIS, July 14.—Arne Borg of Sweden and A. Charlton of Australia, on the showing they made today in the semifinals of the 1500-meter Olympic swim, free style, appear to outclass the competitors from other countries as much as Nurnst and Ristola of Finland in the runs.

The United States stands no chance to score points in this event, all of its entrants having been eliminated. Tomorrow's race in the final between the Swede and the Australian should prove to be a record-breaker, for both of them this afternoon turned in marks well under the old Olympic record without being extended.

On the form displayed today the American women swimmers, however, likely will finish one, two, three in the 400-meter final, in style, while the American women divers have a good chance to score points in the plain and high diving events.

Spain, Sweden, Hungary, France, Holland, Iceland, Czechoslovakia and Belgium remain qualified for the second round in the water polo championship event, from which the United States was eliminated by France in the first round yesterday.

Umpire Schaller to GET LAYOFF TO REST

Umpire "Biff" Schaller will be relieved by Bill Burnside, former Western League arbitrator, for a couple of weeks in order to let Schaller, who has been in poor health, get a good rest and recuperate, as was announced yesterday by President Harry A. Williams. Burnside lives in Oakland and filled in once before this season when a regular Coast umpire was sick.

MIKE SEXTON TAKES OVER BURLINGTONS

(BY A. P. MORTIMER)

BURLINGTON (Iowa) July 14.—The Burlington club of the Mississippi Valley Baseball League has been taken over by President Mike Sexton of Rock Island, Ill., pending investigation of charges that discrimination against Burlington was being practiced by league umpires. Supporters of the club declared today they would appeal from Sexton's action.

In thirteen dual variety conflicts between the two great rivals, Harvard and Yale, this season, the former has been successful only twice, a winner in fencing by one point, and also in golf.

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS)

PARIS, July 14.—The United States Olympic wrestlers have won two titles—the featherweight and lightweight; while Finland has won one title, bantamweight.

Russell Vis of Los Angeles won the lightweight title by defeating Weakstrom of England on points in his first bout and with a fall in the second bout. In the first the American had his opponent down for a majority of the time with double grapevine and wrist holds; in the second and deciding match, he floored the Scandinavian in 3 minutes and 45 seconds with a double grapevine.

Robin Reed, Oregon Agricultural College, won the featherweight title from Chester Newton, Portland, Or., winning two out of three bouts, the first on points and the second in 7 minutes and 39 seconds by a leg split fall.

American Net Stars Win in Olympic Meet

(BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

PARIS, July 14.—Competition in the Olympic tennis tournament started today with United States entries meeting with fair success. Vincent Richards and Francis M. Hunter won from the Rumanians, Mishu and Bozso.

A large crowd flocked to the courts in hopes of seeing Helen Wills in action, but they were disappointed, as her opponent, Madame Marnet, of Spain defaulted.

Miss Lillian Scherman of Brooklyn was the first American to be defeated, losing to Senorita Alvarez of Spain, 6-2, 6-0.

R. Norris Williams II had no trouble disposing of S. M. Hadji of India, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1, in the second round. Watson Washburn, another Yank star, trimmed G. Lappu in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

Mrs. Molla Mallory entered the third round by beating Madame J. Vauasaur of France, 6-2, 6-3. Each drew a bye in the first round.

In the third round of men's singles, Francis M. Hunter defeated Hortal, Argentina, 6-3, 6-5, 6-1.

OLYMPIC GAMES STARS BROKE RECORDS WITH WILD ABANDON

BY BRAVEN DYER

Following Uncle Sam's smashing victory in the Olympic Games track and field competition, in which world records were broken with wild and reckless abandon, someone rises to remark that either better training methods or prohibition are responsible for the establishment of so many new marks, most of which were hung up by United States athletes. There is apparently some cause for the wave of record-breaking performances that have been sweeping the world during the past track season, and although we don't claim to be the only guy with the correct solution, it is interesting to muse on the subject, especially when eight new world marks were created during the past month.

Four years ago at Antwerp no less than four new world records were established and eight additional Olympic marks hung up by perspiring athletes from all over the world. American entries fared just so-so in these performances, three of the world marks going to Yanks, but most of the Olympic records being grabbed by European stars. Fred Thompson, trained in America, but running for Canada, the land of his birth, got credit for the other world mark, his time of 14 4-5s, still standing in the 110-meter high hurdles.

However, startling performances of four years ago are almost completely lost sight of when the records established in this month's competition are considered. Out of the eight world records hung up by Yankee stars get credit for five of them.

Bob Legendre's leap of 25ft. 6in. in the broad jump created a new Olympic and world mark. Harold Osborne's score of 7,710.775 in the 400-meter event being done in 41s, this performance breaking the 1920 mark, which was also made by a Yankee team. In the 1600-meter race, Uncle Sam's representatives ran to a brilliant victory. Dispatches from Paris credit them with breaking the old mark of 3m. 35s., but the books show that in 1912 the American team did the distance in 3m. 18.6s. Sunday's time was 3m. 16s.

DUARTE TACKLES GOTTO THURSDAY IN L.A.A.C. RING

George Blake, matchmaker at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, spent almost a week searching for an opponent to meet the little Olympic contender, August Gotto, in the club's nine-bout show next Thursday night and finally uncovered Felix Duarte, a lad who will give Gotto the fight of his life. Duarte has been shoving gloves in the local ring for several months, and has a long string of victories to his credit. Gotto will be compelled to lay off all his wraps to win over Felix.

TEE FAIRWAY AND GREEN BY CHARLES 'CHICK' EVANS

DON'T QUIT AT BALL GOLF is no game for quitters; there is no reward for those who quit and stop. The club head should go into the ball straight without the slightest deviation from the right angle. Don't pull up quickly that the face will not pass under the center of the ball; the pitch of its face will hit the ball naturally. Use a little more wrist at contact; you can do this by relaxing. Immediately after hitting you should feel as if the hands had gathered in the shot with the fingers. If you are playing either of these clubs out of the grass be sure to relax a little more than ordinarily. The sense of slip when the club head meets the ball should be there. It is wise to get a caddy hit. Do not hit the ball with your full strength and you feel the club head on it. Don't let the ball stop your momentum.

Come up on the follow through with the left knee braced, hands and club head extending equally the inner and outer arc of the back stroke; right side nearly facing hole at finish. The arms should be bent on the follow through bisecting the angle formed by the lines of the left shoulder and head. Let the follow through too short. It is very necessary to have a break of the wrists after the first three feet of the follow through and, therefore, perhaps your stance should be a little space. You should not get yourself in such a position that you are bound to follow through badly. The club head, as a matter of fact, is jammed straight into the three-foot part of the front swing. The club head should be square on the ball before you can start the follow through. No one can force a follow through.

Your club head must be at right angles to the front direction line for the three feet. You should not be too stiff, either in doing this, nor should you let go of the follow through. Without dragging or holding the ball onto the club face continue swinging. About two feet of the parallel line in the air and on the ground. Do not bring your hands up too slowly. Accorndly, you should just far enough to gather the stroke on the up swing. You should not let the club head drop. The club head should be square on the ball before you can start the follow through. No one can force a follow through.

Local gossip has it that the Angels are about to get Ray Grimes. Grimes, a hard-hitting first baseman, Chicago Cubs. The Cubs have asked waivers on Grimes and if they get them the Angels' first-base problem will be solved. Grimes hits the ball hard and should be good for about a .350 average in this loop.

The feature of the Angels' recent trip was the hitting of Cedric Durst. Durst collected forty-two hits in ninety-nine times at bat on the road. He has been away from home. Included in Durst's forty-two safeties were eight home runs, one triple and seven doubles. Wally Hood hit .383; Jenkins, .332; Whaley, .349; and Twombly, .337, on the trip, which accounts for the improvement in the local club. Both Durst and Hood hit safely in all but three games in which they participated. With both players in the Angels are bound to win and if they get Ray Grimes—there's reason to hope.

POINCARÉ WARNS CABINET AGAINST EXTREMIST ACTS

Traces Chamber's Confidence Vote to Herriot's Talent; Predicts Trouble on New Program

BY RAYMOND POINCARÉ
(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
(Copyright, 1924, Public Ledger.)

PARIS, July 14.—Political events in France took place exactly according to expectations. The new Cabinet owes the Chamber's vote of confidence, above all, to the valor, talent and upright character of its chief. But its program, which includes the suppression of the Vatican embassy, amnesty, recognition of union rights for government employees, and immediate resumption of official relations with Russia, is far from satisfying to all members of the Republican majority. Tomorrow has in store for the new government a road which is paved with an embarrassing succession of obstacles.

So difficult and weary is the government's task that even those who are not in entire agreement with the manner in which the new Cabinet is made up, and with a few of its ideas, are refraining from prejudiced criticism.

The policy of alliance with the Socialists, which in itself is the feature of the new Cabinet, has incidentally suffered two fairly obvious defeats which no doubt will be warnings to M. Herriot and his cabinet. It is hoped, will dissuade him from the idea of making excessive concessions to the extremist elements. By this I mean the refusal of the selection for the Presidency of the republic and for the Presidency of the Senate.

VIEWS COMPARED

Gaston Doumergue, the new President of the republic, was elected by a great majority of the National Assembly as against the candidate who was openly supported by the Cabinet, M. Painlevé. To tell the truth, there were many times during their respective careers when it was difficult to cover any noticeable difference between the political opinions of M. Painlevé and M. Doumergue. Both of them are advanced Republicans and both are good patriots. While I was President of the republic, I had both of them as Prime Ministers, and I know better than anyone else that both have eminent qualifications.

But M. Painlevé, who is a very great mathematician with a mind tending to an ideal, and who is a most honest person, is in practical life, and particularly in political matters, a tendency to inconsistency and hesitation which sometimes places him at the mercy of the most unexpected influences. Throughout the recent incidents his candidacy for the Presidency appeared to have been desired above all by International Socialists, among whom, however, M. Painlevé never sat.

M. Doumergue, on the contrary, was supported not only by a large number of the "lefts," but also by the Moderates, the Liberals, and even by the "right," because, and rightly, too, he appeared to be the resolute partisan of the foreign policy which he had pursued, and especially of the Ruhr occupation.

DOUMERGUE'S RECORD

I was, for the first time, Minister of Public Education thirty years ago, when M. Doumergue was elected deputy of the Gard department. He succeeded one of my friends, M. Jammes, whose promising future was cut short by premature death. I was quickly impressed by M. Doumergue's amiable simplicity, his good judgment and his upright character.

Later, in 1906, he became Minister of Colonies in a Cabinet which included M. Clemenceau. Minister of the Interior and myself as Minister of Finance. I was then able to appreciate thoroughly the conscientious manner in which he carried out his duties and the spirit of independence which, when necessary, he showed toward the members of his party.

At the end of 1913, when Barthou's ministry (which had made the Chamber vote the three-year compulsory military service bill in reply to Germany's increase of her fighting forces) was overthrown, I was obliged to call on a representative of the majority which had overthrown the Cabinet. I looked for some one who would maintain the new organization of our national defense. I called on M. Doumergue, who accepted the Premiership and took over at the same time the office of Minister of Foreign Affairs.

LOYALTY CITED

We did not belong to the same division of the Republican party, but M. Doumergue behaved toward me with irreproachable loyalty. He directed the foreign policy of France with wisdom and tact during a period of uncertainty and imperial Germany's intrigues in the Balkans were beginning to worry clear-sighted people.

The following spring, after the general elections, M. Doumergue spontaneously gave up office and was replaced by M. Viviani. But immediately following Germany's declaration of war, M. Viviani, who wished to devote all of his attention to the Premiership, asked me to request M. Doumergue to take over the office of Minister of Foreign Affairs. M. Doumergue accepted and went to work with unbounded devotion, giving himself up entirely to the country's defense.

I remember a sentence which depicts his character, and which he pronounced after the invasion of Belgium and the north of France. As the Germans were approaching Paris the commander-in-chief, Gen. Joffre (who required complete freedom for his military operations and the splendid strategic retreat which he had ordered in view of preparation for the battle of the Marne) had urged the Minister and myself to leave Paris as soon as possible with the Diplomatic Corps.

SPARTAN SENTENCE

This was the time when my eminent and dear friend, Myron D. Herriot, came to see me and say that if we left Paris he would not go along with the other ambassadors, but would remain and try to protect the monuments of the capital, the works of art and particularly the lives of the inhabitants, from the invader. Several of us resisted this idea of leaving Paris. M. Doumergue, the contrary, was of the opinion that all considerations of a sentimental nature or relating to false pride should be sacrificed to the military necessities. He greatly influenced the decision of the Council of Ministers by this Spartan line. "There are times when true courage consists in remaining open to reproaches of cowardice."

At the same time M. Doumergue gave an example of personal unselfishness. The excitement caused in France by Germany's onslaught obliged M. Viviani to expand his Cabinet which, up to then, had rested on a rather narrow basis which was actually radical. He had requested and obtained the assistance of M. Millerand, M. Briand and M. Delcasse, but as M. Delcasse would accept nothing else but the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, which office he had previously held for a long time, M. Doumergue very graciously stepped aside and offered to withdraw, even offering to second M. Delcasse from the Ministry of Colonies which M. Viviani and I had proposed to him after setting aside the official charge.

Later during the war M. Doumergue, because of his moderate and conscientious activity, accomplished a mission to Russia, after which he returned to the ranks of the Senate, to which he had belonged for several years.

MAINTAIN ATTITUDE

At the beginning of 1922, when I once more became Prime Minister, M. Doumergue succeeded me as President of the Senatorial Commission for Foreign Affairs. He supported my foreign policy and France's claims against Germany with all his might. In January, 1923, when I explained the motives for our occupation of the Ruhr, it was M. Doumergue who suggested that my speech to the Upper House be placarded in every district of France. Since then he has maintained this attitude, and he is not the kind of a man to change his opinion after he is at the Elysée Palace. There he will be the firm defender of peace, but he will not abandon our country's rights.

The election of the new President of the Senate has a like significance. M. de Selves, who had become President of the Senatorial Commission for Foreign Affairs, followed (in complete agreement with me) the same policy. Formerly Prefect of the Seine Department, M. de Selves is a most distinguished administrator. A few months ago when I reorganized my Cabinet, I chose him Minister of the Interior and he occupied his office at the time of the general elections.

His competitor for the chair of President was Blumet Marlin, very gallant gentleman indeed, who lost a son in the war, and who allowed himself to be dragged into supporting the candidature of M. Painlevé as against that of M. Doumergue, and in spite of his personal sentiments to recooperate an alliance with the Socialists. The Senate made him pay for this impure motive by giving M. de Selves the presidency.

DYING MAN PROTECTS ASSAILANT

Refuses to Admit Knowing Woman Who Left Husband for Love of Him

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

NEW YORK, July 14.—Within a few hours after she had shot and probably fatally wounded Peter Stinocone, 24 years of age, Mrs. Josephine Romano, 27, who deserted a husband and five children eight months ago for love of Stinocone, was arrested in the home of her brother-in-law, Joseph De Biasi, in Brooklyn, yesterday.

Mrs. Romano was taken to the bedside of Stinocone by detectives in an effort to have him identify her, but he refused to admit even that he knew her. With bullet wounds in his chest and stomach, it was said he had little chance to recover.

The revolver with which Mrs. Romano shot Stinocone, the police say, had been given to her by the latter with instructions to kill her husband. It was when he made this demand, according to the version given by Mrs. Romano to the police, that she left her husband and made her home with her brother-in-law in Brooklyn, frequently going about with Stinocone, who came to this country from Italy only in last November.

PROTEST LOWER VALUATION

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

MIAMI (Axis) July 14.—Protest is to be made to the Board of Equalization against a proposed reduction of $112,747 in the valuation of the property of the Miami Copper Company within the Miami township. Declaration is made by the City Council that the mining property has not declined in value, and that no reason exists for the decrease. It is understood that the State tax has as a factor the value of the production, which, in the past two years, declined with the copper market.

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) July 14.—Raimundo Marada, on his way from Portland, Ore., to Mexico, missed his hold when he tried to board a fruit express freight in the local yards, and was thrown under the wheels. He died at the County Hospital a few hours later.

HIGH CORN PRICE DULLS TRADING

Jobbers Withdraw from Oklahoma Market

Ground Wheat and Oats Are Substituted in Texas

Buyers Slow to Purchase Stocks of Flour

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) July 14.—High prices of corn mill feeds in Oklahoma, resulting from increasing advances in corn prices, have virtually driven jobbers and wholesalers of Southeastern States handling these commodities out of this market. Not only do they decline to take on stock at the present figures, but many of them, particularly in Texas, are selling oats and ground wheat as substitutes for corn chops.

Chops were quoted in Oklahoma City as high as $3.42 and corn meal advanced to 72 cents for twenty-five-pound bags. Feed manufacturers say the season is unusually dull.

On the other hand, the flour business shows an impetus. This is originating, however, principally among the country trade which has benefited by crop movements. Neither jobbers and wholesalers nor large baking concerns are willing to contract for flour stocks of any considerable size, still believing that the season's prices will settle to lower figures. Millers say that some large baking concerns that formerly have ordered flour in 5000-barrel lots are now taking it in 500-barrel lots.

Prices of flour dipped 30 cents during the week in keeping with the break in the wheat market, but within twenty-four hours gained what they had lost. Hard wheat short patent sold at about $6.80 per barrel and soft wheat short patent at about $6.50 per barrel. A steady movement of clears to foreign market, particularly in Latin-American countries, was reported.

Many mills of this territory were grinding half and half of old and new wheat last week. Practically all of them reported satisfactory laboratory tests of new wheat flour. Lower protein content was found in grain coming from central-west sections. It is believed that northwest sections will produce the average percentage in output of high-protein grain.

Currency Roll Found on Body of Man in River

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

NEW YORK, July 14.—The body of an unidentified man was found in the North River of New York today and the police report that they found $3856 in currency in his pockets. He wore a signet ring marked "F. J. & Co." and a metal tag bearing the same initials. Also he wore a Longshoreman's Union button No. 2.

The man was about 40 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighed about 140 pounds. He wore khaki shirt and trousers, black socks and tan shoes.

TREMENDOUS GROWTH IN SILK CONSUMPTION

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

CHICAGO, July 14.—Silk consumption in the United States has increased sixty-five times over in fifty years, according to a report made public today by the Real Silk Institute of Chicago and Indianapolis. The report covered a statistical study of silk production and consumption since 1874.

The report states that the imports of raw silk into this country last year totaled $2,455,004, or $1,888,777 pounds more than in 1874. The value of the imports increased more than $401,300,000 during the half-century.

In addition to the raw silk coming into this country during the last year, there were 10,125,922 pounds of waste silk. Fabric in piece totaled 2,915,190 pounds and spun silk, 993,466 pounds, the report adds.

More than $464,000 of ribbon silk was imported as well as $4,503,084 of silk laces and embroideries. $4,018,183 of velvet, plushes and $5,585,864 of silk wearing apparel, according to the report.

ACTING MAYOR OUT OF LUCK

ST. LOUIS, July 14.—Acting Mayor Nease, having to pay the expenses of the Mayor's office out of his own pocket while Mayor Kiel is in Europe with the advertising clubs, Mayor Kiel drew all the expense money before leaving and took it with him.

COTTON CROP ESTIMATE

WIVES ON JOBS ARE DISCUSSED

Department of Labor Has Made Investigation

Little to Show Gains or Losses is Found

Number of Wives to Leave Kitchens Great

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

WASHINGTON, July 14.—There are days in which the government is investigating everything, and the latest has to do with married women who have jobs. Of course the Department of Labor does not go so far as to say that father hasn't a job, too, but anyone can see that what prompted the investigation was the idea presented by the song: "Everybody works but father."

And the interesting thing about the report is it indicates that whatever father may be doing, mother is working harder today than she did when the song was written. The employment of married women in industrial pursuits is decidedly on the increase, according to the figures. In 1920 only five in every hundred married women had outside jobs. In 1922 nine in every hundred were employed. The population of the country has been increasing, and this increase in proportion really means a large gain in actual numbers employed. In 1920, 515,000 married women were employed in industry, while in 1922 the number had increased to 3,000,000.

Figures showing an increase in the number of married women who have jobs do not mean merely that there are more of the stenographer type. When women first entered the business world it was in the capacity of stenographer or private secretary. The field has greatly broadened.

INCREASES NOTABLE

During the last decade there has been a notable increase in the number of married women employed in the industries devoted to manufacturing. In this group, although all women employed increased only 7 per cent, the number of married women shows an increase of 41 per cent. In occupations connected with trade there has been in the last decade an increase of 21 per cent for all women and an increase of 34 per cent for married women.

These figures spell a rebellion against the drudgery of housework. The fact that in the period under review, when these tremendous increases were taking place in the industrial fields, there was a decrease of 12 per cent in the number of married women employed in domestic service, is eloquent of this fact.

The preference for work in the industries doubtless springs largely from the desire of some women to get out of the kitchen, but it is true that many women perform their household tasks and hold positions also. To be sure, the desire of the married woman for some measure of economic independence or her need of helping to make ends meet exerts an influence.

The department report undertakes to moralize a little on the motives of these married women and attempts to find out what they have gained. The conclusion is reached that these women go out to work largely because, in addition to emancipation from days spent at unremunerated housework, they can lay up money to insure the health and education of their children.

THE GREATER EVIL

The report asks which is the greater evil, the loss of the mother in the home or the poverty, which is kept at arm's length by the additional wage she brings to the family budget? Some figures at hand would indicate that a great deal must be shown on the credit side to balance the losses. In Manchester, the mortality among babies whose mothers went out to work in the first year of the babies' lives was 227.5 per thousand compared with only 133.9 per thousand for babies whose mothers remained at home. In New Bedford the rate was 167.8 for the babies of working mothers and only 108.3 for those of mothers who remained at home.

An index of what the additional money does is seen, however, in infant mortality figures for Akron, where the rubber industry pays higher wages to women than the textile industries of Manchester and New Bedford. In Akron the rate for the babies of working mothers was 88.2 per thousand and for babies of home-staying mothers 77.2. It may be said concerning the figures of the children of the home-staying mothers that their poverty was not so very great or they would not have been able to stay at home. The department is studying all these difficult questions and presumably in a few years will have valuable data showing whether the married woman in industry is a national asset or whether her absence from the home means an infant mortality loss overbalancing her contribution of labor.

STATE FUND PLANNED TO PAY BACK SALARIES

(BY A. F. MONT WIRE)

SACRAMENTO, July 14.—A deficiency appropriation of $175,000 to pay back salaries and other claims of the State Department of Agriculture will be authorized today by the State Board of Control. The money will be drawn from the so-called "frozen" funds of a number of divisions of the department, among them being the standardization fund, the cattle-protection fund, most hygiene fund and fish-exchange fund. The officials are proceeding on authority given them by recent Supreme Court decisions relating to the disbursement of special funds of State departments.

You have one of the finest stocks in this part of the country to choose from. It's bigger and finer this season than ever.

We have prepared for a great increase in business, but the spring was long and cold; business has been good—but not good enough for us.

The result is that we want greater volume now and we're giving these extra values to get it.

The price reductions are moving the clothes out of our store just as fast as we can fit them on our customers. We'd suggest that you do not wait too long.

FIND WOMAN'S FOOT IN CANAL*Fiendish Murder Hinted Near San Bernardino*Discovery is Made by Two Mexican Boys
Police Are Checking Up on Missing Girls

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE)

RIVERSIDE, July 14.—Hunting for a fiendish murder in the police annals of Riverside was the discovery of a woman's foot in the canal. Chief of Police Elmer Deas, who is investigating, has so far been unable to find a single clue which would establish the identity of the victim.

The evidence of what may prove to be the most gruesome crime in the history of the city was first brought to the attention of the police when a Mexican boy rushed into the police station yesterday afternoon, crying that he had found a man's foot floating in the canal. Chief Deas, who answered the call, reported that the foot was apparently that of a woman, but that decomposition had set in so such an extent that it was impossible to obtain any closer identification.

Police officers hold three theories as a solution of the mystery. The first is that the murderer, hoping to conceal his crime, disposed of it in the outlying district. The second is that the victim was struck by a train, and that the body is lying under some railroad tracks. The third theory is that the foot was amputated in some hospital, buried, and dug up by animals.

Police officers said last night that there have been no women to disappear from Riverside within the last month, but several girls have been lost from near-by cities. A check-up is being made on these cases with a view of finding further facts which will aid officials in their attempt to identify the victim.

TWO BULLETS HITAuto Stuck in Sand Leads to Shooting

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

BAKERSFIELD, July 14.—Crashed with whisky, it is alleged, New Walker fired two revolver bullets into the body of a man who was traveling in a car in which the men were traveling. The car was stuck in sand near French Gulch, about two and one-half miles from Isabella, according to W. A. McGinn, Deputy District Attorney, who obtained the version of the affair from Dr. W. B. Smith of Kernville.

According to Mr. McGinn's story, New Walker, his brother, Tom Walker, Floyd Fisher and Mike Carroll were motoring from Kernville to Isabella and the car in which they were traveling became imbedded in the sand near French Gulch.

New Walker, who had been drinking, according to Mr. McGinn's version of the incident, began quarreling with Fisher. Walker, it is alleged, attacked Fisher with his fists, and Fisher, who was armed with a revolver, shot at him.

After the shooting, Walker picked up the revolver and fired twice at Fisher, one bullet entering his left elbow and the other penetrating his abdomen through the left lung and lodging against his pelvic bone.

After the shooting, Walker loaded him into a car and drove him into Kernville, where he left him with Dr. Smith, who gave the wounded man immediate attention.

MONROVIA, July 14.—A woman arrested Saturday night in the Pacific Electric depot in Los Angeles on the charge of passing worthless checks was identified today by Mrs. C. A. Brown of the Arthur Asher Company of this city as the woman who passed about $200 worth of worthless checks here last Wednesday under the name of Mrs. George Shuman.

Mrs. Brown and Acting Chief of Police Frank Scott went to Covina this morning where the woman was arrested. She gave her address here as 147 West Lemon avenue, which is a bona fide address, but she had no residence there.

In other places she gave her name as Mrs. George Summers and Mrs. George Carter. While standing in front of the Pacific Electric Building at Sixth and Main streets Saturday evening, a Covina merchant whom the woman had victimized recognized her and he had the woman arrested.

Here she entered the First National Bank of Monrovia Wednesday morning and deposited a draft on a bank in Amarillo, Tex., for $400. She was told by the bank officials that she could not check on this until they heard from the bank in Texas. She went out, however, and starting down Myrtle avenue, cashed checks at various business places, including the Arthur Asher Company, the Hicks Hardware Company, C. W. Gard's Grocery, the Olsen Grocery, the McBratney Lumber Store and Leonard's notion store. C. W. Gard accused her of passing bad checks, and she was arrested.

Here she made a demand on her for it, as he had become suspicious. It is said that the woman, who is wanted in cities from Los Angeles to San Diego on similar charges of passing worthless checks, this morning was arrested while writing the various checks in Monrovia signed as Mrs. George Shuman. She gave as reason for her activities with the checks. She used the same method in all of the cities.

The court decided that the best place for the young husband to entertain such desires was behind the bars and accordingly sentenced him to serve six months in the County Jail.

Mrs. Duena, young and pretty, save for a blackened eye, bruises and cuts about the face, alleged to have been administered by her husband, swore to a complaint for Duena's arrest.

In court the husband admitted that while he and his wife and their infant child were motoring last night, he entered a plea of insanity when he appeared in the Police Court this afternoon to answer to a charge of battery.

Duena denied that he always gave way to his desire to beat his wife, but admitted that he frequently did so. He entered a plea of insanity when he appeared in the Police Court this afternoon to answer to a charge of battery.

ABATEMENT PLANS GIVENHotel Among Places to Be Closed in Campaign Against Liquor at San Bernardino

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
SAN BERNARDINO, July 14.—Abatement proceedings to close places included in the liquor raids here Saturday afternoon and night by Federal prohibition officers, were asked this morning of Dist. Atty. Johnson by Edwin Grant, president of the State Law Enforcement League. The proceedings will be granted, Mr. Johnson said, although the exact number of places that will be asked closed has not been determined.

Included in the raids was the Augustine Hotel, of which C. A. House, a member of the grand jury, is owner. T. N. Peterson, owner of the hotel, was arrested in the raid. The Augustine Hotel was among the places which Mr. Grant asks be closed under the liquor abatement proceedings.

"Mr. Grant was in conference with me this morning," Mr. Johnson said. "He has asked abatement proceedings against a number of places, but the ones to be named in the proceedings have not been determined. They probably will be completed today."

The raids were the culmination of weeks of secret activities in the city, which were carried out in the direction of Grant at the request of a committee of citizens, the names of whom Grant refused to announce. The investigation cost thousands of dollars. A cleaning establishment was purchased and used last night in the raid, which the operatives cloaked their identity.

The majority of these arrested will be taken into the Federal Court.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE)
POMONA, July 14.—Traffic accidents took heavy toll in this city when four persons were injured, three seriously and one automobile was demolished after it had been carried for sixty feet by a Pacific Electric interurban car. The injured were: Dr. E. P. Kermott, 2203 Laurel street, Upland, broken shoulder bone, bruises and lacerations about the head, face and limbs.

Mrs. E. P. Kermott, wife of the physician, broken collar bone, probably a fractured hip, teeth knocked out, and severe cuts on the forehead.

Mrs. G. P. Kermott, San Diego, mother of Dr. Kermott, cuts over the eyes, and back sprained.

Mrs. C. H. Clements, Chino, bruised, and leg fractured.

Dr. and Mrs. Kermott and his mother were injured when their heavy touring car was struck by a northbound Pomona-Claremont car last night. The automobile was totally wrecked. The injured are confined in the hospital. Mrs. Clements was injured when the light car, driven by her husband, was struck broadside by another automobile last night.

WARN OF MAD DOGS
Lankershim Officer Bitten When He Executes Canine

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE)
VAN NUTS, July 14.—Rabies is causing considerable apprehension at points in San Fernando Valley and the injury which E. M. Hamren, Lankershim police officer, sustained Sunday evening has resulted in broadcasting warning to citizens to keep their dogs under leash and to report immediately to health officers any suspicious cases.

Hamren, in response to a call that a maddened Airedale dog was running at large in Lankershim's residential district, found the animal apparently near death and took it to the hospital. Drawing his revolver he shot it through the head and thinking that he had killed it, he held it to turn it over before removing the head which he was sending to Los Angeles for pathological examination.

When the dog fastened its jaws on Hamren's forearm, inflicting a jagged gash, he was obliged to empty his revolver before death resulted, after which he went to the Receiving Hospital to have the wound cauterized. In an event that symptoms of hydrophobia develop he will be given the Pasteur treatment.

Testimony by deputy sheriffs who examined the house on the day following the explosion took up most of today's session and county officers, under cross-examination, brought out the fact that iron beds in the ruined home of the slain man were bent and twisted out of shape, that all windows were blown out, that part of the roof was torn off and that great holes and openings had been made in the ceiling.

INSURANCE NEWS

Fire Prevention; Public Protection; Co-operation; Fixing Liability; State Competition

Prepared for "The Times" by Board of Fire Underwriters

In order to determine the proper and adequate rate of premium necessary to be charged to meet the losses and pay the expenses of the fire insurance business, also to provide a sufficient fund to meet contingencies, it has been found necessary to have a central organization, manned by people of experience, to measure and estimate the hazard of the various classes of risk and advise the insurance companies as to the rate each class may be insured with any hope of profit.

Out of this common need has come the Board of Fire Underwriters of California, which has been operating under its present plan since January, 1924, more or less, which are in development, and are being offered to the public in order to determine their price in the market.

The functions of the board as shown by Article 11 of its constitution are:

To determine the proper and adequate rate of premium necessary to be charged to meet the losses and pay the expenses of the fire insurance business, also to provide a sufficient fund to meet contingencies, it has been found necessary to have a central organization, manned by people of experience, to measure and estimate the hazard of the various classes of risk and advise the insurance companies as to the rate each class may be insured with any hope of profit.

It is to the credit of the people that few States have succeeded in doing this. CONDITION OF COTTON AT PRESENT

Crop Holding Its Own; Unfavorable Weather in Some Localities

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) July 14.—Reports of the average date of July 12 to the Commercial Appeal indicate that the cotton crop as a whole has held its own since the beginning of the season. The southern half of the belt appears to be in relatively better condition than the northern half, while North Carolina has made good improvement, and some reports indicate prospects for some parts of that State are the best they have ever had.

There are scattered complaints of deterioration in local character, due mostly to unfavorable weather conditions, in some instances suggesting that the cotton is being injured by the weather. In South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, the cotton is being injured by the weather. In South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, the cotton is being injured by the weather.

The Times

LOS ANGELES

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 15, 1924. -PART I. 22 PAGES. POPULATION 1,100,000

DO WE WANT KIBELE?

Yesterday's news dispatches from Washington carried a report from the Bureau of Research of the United States Shipping Board setting out that Los Angeles Harbor is the second port of the country in freight tonnage of all classes--only New York exceeding this harbor in gross totals of commercial shipments, foreign, intercoastal and noncontiguous--and that Los Angeles Harbor is first in America in intercoastal traffic, exceeding the record of the harbor of New York by nearly 3,000,000 tons last year.

What such a showing means to the future of Los Angeles, made by a harbor whose rank as a world port dates back but a few years, requires no emphasis. There is no need here to elaborate on the fact that the harbor is the city's greatest single asset, present and potential, nor upon the degree to which the commercial and industrial development of this region depends upon the efficient administration of harbor affairs.

It is sufficient to point out that no greater responsibility rests with the Mayor than to put and keep the Harbor and its vast business in the hands of the biggest, ablest, most disinterested experts who can be drafted for places on the Harbor Commission.

It is idle to maintain that such has been the policy in the past. The administration of harbor affairs for the past two years has been characterized by inefficiency, dissension and outright scandal. The ousting of Edgar McKee, president of the Harbor Commission, following disclosures which led to a grand jury investigation of the conduct of the harbor business, is a fresh and shameful memory. The acceptance by McKee, first denied and then admitted, of valuable "gifts" from persons having business to do with the Harbor Commission was only one phase of that ugly affair, not yet concluded.

Otto B. Kibele has been a member of the Harbor Commission during its most turbulent period. Early in 1922 an unsuccessful effort was made to force him to resign, following a prolonged internal squabble in the board. The term for which he was appointed expired July 7, a week ago. Considerable pressure is being brought to bear to bring about his reappointment.

The Times does not believe he should be reappointed. Kibele is a man who believes in helping his friends. One of his friends is Frank Reese, sometimes called the "king of the City Hall lobbyists." Kibele voted to vote Warrenite for big harbor paving jobs. Warrenite is manufactured by a company whose Los Angeles representative was Reese. Another friend of Kibele's is Emil Cykler, head of the Pan-Pacific Construction Company, to which Kibele voted to award a $500,000 dredging contract at the harbor. Then, in defiance of the protests of the Harbor Committee of Two Hundred and of C. J. Colden, the third Harbor Commissioner, Kibele and McKee, also a friend of Cykler, voted Cykler the famous "bar gain lease" on a huge area in the West Basin at a rental rate which had been officially obsolete for eight months. It was not even necessary for the Pan-Pacific company to have a legal application before the board. When a subsequent effort was made to revise this lease in accordance with the considerably higher rates legally in effect, Kibele voted against it.

Kibele is in the shipyard business and the Cykler dredge was ordered built at his shipyard. Kibele voted for a thirty-year lease to E. L. Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum Company of 1200 feet of frontage on Pier 1, an area in which leasing for private purposes is prohibited by the charter and by ordinance, as legally interpreted. This lease was voted just before the new and higher harbor-leasing rates went into effect. Its legality is now before the courts.

Kibele is a shipbuilder of long experience. During the greater part of his incumbency as Harbor Commissioner he has been, and still is, actively connected with private companies doing business at the harbor and with the Harbor Commission. It is indubitably an advantage to such private interests to have one of their executives one of the three members of the Harbor Commission.

But it is not to the advantage of the city nor of its harbor.

ZEPPELIN LINE TO COAST SEEN

German Dirigible Magnate Inspecting Ground Here

Los Angeles Considered as Terminus of Service

Future of Air Travel Told by Inventor's Nephew

Transcontinental Zeppelin air service, with Los Angeles as the western terminus, may become a reality soon, if the survey now being made in this country by Count Erich von Zeppelin, nephew of the late Count Otto von Zeppelin, inventor of the Zeppelin type of dirigible, reveals conditions favorable to this form of transportation.

Count Erich, formerly an admiral in the German Navy, is a member of the Zeppelin company of dirigible manufacturers at Friedrichshafen, Germany, and is now looking over the ground in Los Angeles. He made no definite statements as to when the proposed transcontinental air line may go into operation, but stated that it was under consideration and would be the next development after the establishment of trans-Atlantic line, which will be the first step.

During his stay in this country Count Zeppelin will be present in New York to receive a new dirigible, the ZR-3, recently completed by his company for the United States Navy. This airship will leave Germany for America about September 1, he said.

LARGEST ZEPPELIN

The ZR-3 has a capacity of about 75,000 cubic meters and is one of the largest Zeppelins thus far built. The Count, it has already made two short trips in Europe and will make four long flights before it starts across the Atlantic.

He spoke optimistically of the future of aerial navigation by dirigible, stating that he believed the time not far distant when transportation by air will rival that by sea.

"Early in aerial navigation lies especially in the construction of dirigibles of large capacity," he said. "When a regular service is finally established it will employ machines equipped with balloons that will hold anywhere from 130,000 to 150,000 cubic meters of helium gas. The ZR-3, with only a 75,000 cubic meter capacity, has a lifting power of eighty tons, about 50 per cent of what is required for carrying the vessel and its equipment, including water ballast, while the rest may be used for carrying passengers, baggage and mail."

Count Zeppelin discussed briefly the rapid development of the Zeppelin type of dirigible, the idea of which he said had been conceived by his uncle while he was connected with the United Army during the Civil War as an officer in the intelligence branch of the service, which employed balloons extensively for observation purposes.

FIRST DIRIGIBLE

"After that war my uncle began experimenting with dirigible balloons and eventually developed a type that worked successfully," said the Count. "In 1817 he perfected a machine, the L-13, which made a record nonstop flight from Bulgaria to Khartum and back, a distance of 4200 miles. By this time the dirigible had been perfected to a point where its efficiency is at least four times that of the earliest balloons."

Speaking of how the adoption of Zeppelins will speed up transportation, Count Zeppelin said that among the lines now under consideration is one between Berlin and Chicago, and that it was made a record nonstop flight from Berlin to Chicago in fifty hours, carrying 100 passengers and two tons of mail.

In addition to looking over the situation in this country with a view to the establishment of air-line Count Zeppelin is also inspecting manufacturing plants in different industrial centers for the purpose of determining where developments here that may be introduced.

BASTILLE DAY OBSERVED HERE

Armory Program is Typical of French Ideals

Address by Asa Keyes Only English Feature

War Orphan Benefit Dance is Climax of Day

French in every respect, yesterday afternoon's celebration of Bastille Day, the national holiday of France, at the Armory at Exposition Park was a gathering of the French colony of this city. An enthusiastic and patriotic atmosphere was conducted. Except for the brief talk by Asa Keyes, district attorney, not a word of English was spoken. Mr. Keyes and the American flag on the platform were the only American touches to the afternoon.

More than 1000 persons attended the open-air dance given by the French Society for the benefit of French war orphans last night at the Armory at Exposition Park, marking the climax of the day's celebration. Decorations included the tri-color of France.

ASKS AID FOR LAW

The affair was in charge of Auguste Blanchard, Louis Calocher and Jean Casters with the committee of honor as follows: Louis Sentous, French Consul; Mayor Cyrus, United States District Judge Bledsoe and Gen. Frank C. Prescott, and F. F. Pelletier of the Disabled Veterans of the World War.

The District Attorney in his address asked the co-operation of the French people of the city in the upholding of the police and the District Attorney's office in the prevention and punishment of crime. He was followed by M. L. N. Brunswig, president of the French Alliance and chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Interpreting the various talks were songs dear to the hearts of the French people. "Madelaine" and "Marseillaise" evoked great cheers.

TABLEAU OF NATIONS

Perhaps the most picturesque part of the program was the allegorical group consisting of attractive French girls garbed to represent France, the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and the girls who took the parts were Mlle. Madeline Wagonnier, Mlle. Madeline Tournoux, Mlle. Lucienne Heiser and Mlle. Alice Bishopp. During the greater part of the program they sat across the platform forming a colorful background for the speakers and musicians.

Others to take part were Sylvia Jacques and Armand Lescouille, who gave French dances; Mlle. Verge in character dances; Mlle. Floriane Thompson who sang "I Madele" and "Marseillaise"; M. Thee, Marc, who gave a violin solo; a talk by M. Louis Sentous; opera airs by M. Andre Roussier; French songs by Mlle. Therese Quadri and selections by the orchestra.

Mrs. Willis in New Trial Plea in Appeal Court

Asserting that one of the women jurors had been "browbeaten" into rendering a verdict of guilty against her, Mrs. Margaret B. Willis, convicted slayer of Dr. Benjamin B. Baldwin through her attorneys, appealed to the Second District Court of Appeal yesterday for a reversal of the sentence of life imprisonment recently imposed out there.

The request for a new trial will center around an allegation made by a juror that she was virtually forced into rendering a verdict against her wishes by her fellow members of the panel, according to Mrs. Willis's attorneys. Mrs. Willis was accused of killing Dr. Baldwin in her apartment here several months ago. After killing him, evidence was introduced to show that she placed the body in a trunk, which was then thrown over an embankment in San Fernando Valley.

LAWYERS ADMITTED HERE

Four lawyers from other States were admitted to practice before the California bar by the Second District Court of Appeal, Division Two, yesterday. John H. Cobb, Alaska; Julius R. Jensen, Minnesota; Albert L. Larson, Utah; and G. M. Grant, Saskatchewan, Canada, were admitted.

POWER RATE PROTESTS Judge Valentine Seeks Return to Superior Bench

Commission Hears Objections of Twenty-six Cities on Proposed Increase

Superior Judge L. H. Valentine yesterday announced himself a candidate for re-election. Judge Valentine was appointed to the Superior Court bench in 1917 and at the general election in 1918 he was elected for a term of six years. Prior to his appointment he served as a member of the State Legislature, United States Attorney for the Southern District of California, and in the Department of Public Service Commission. He was educated in California and was graduated in the law department of the University of California. He practiced law in Los Angeles for thirty years. Judge Valentine announced that his candidacy is based on the record he has made during his seven years on the Superior Court bench. An independent Valentine-Judge Committee has been formed with James A. Anderson, attorney, as chairman.

DAIRYMEN PROTEST RATE INCREASE

YUBA, July 14.—Protest was made before the State Railroad Commission in Los Angeles today when application of the Southern California Edison Company for an increase of rates in the Yuba Valley was heard. The company asked for a 10 per cent increase in rates as a result of action taken at a mass meeting of dairymen of Yuba and Kings counties at the Golden State plant of the Golden State Milk Products Company last Friday. About seventy dairymen were present. B. H. Hawel, for sixteen years executive of the dairy division of the United States Department of Agriculture and now assistant manager of the Golden State Milk Products Company, was heard as a representative for the dairymen at the conference and the commission for the dairymen. Other members of the commission are H. H. Beckwith, S. B. Anderson and Henry Nolan of the Delta Valley district.

SANTA MONICA MEN GRAB CRICKET CATCH

The Santa Monica Cricket Club defeated the Los Angeles club in a fast and interesting game yesterday afternoon at the Santa Monica Cricket Ground. The Santa Monica team won by the score of eight runs. The Los Angeles team was the better of the two in batting, getting three hits, but the Santa Monica team was the better in fielding, catching four wickets with the help of their fast bowlers. The Santa Monica team is now the champion of the Los Angeles district.

BEBAN DENIES "DUMB" SLUR

Star Says He Called Film Actresses Beautiful, But Lacking in Training for Stage

The truth is out at last. George Beban did not say 50 per cent of motion-picture actresses are "beautiful but dumb." He just said 50 per cent are beautiful but haven't had the training and experience to succeed on the stage. At least, this is the contention of the actor, who is now in Hollywood for the first time since he was quoted as making the famous accusation a year and a half ago in Chicago.

CONCERN CAUSED

"Do you think I am an idiot?" he asked. "I would have taken one to have made a statement like that. Why should I criticize my own kind?" The future which the asserted interview made in Hollywood caused Mr. Beban some acute concern. He said he was not a motion picture actor, but a stage actor. He said he was not a motion picture actor, but a stage actor. He said he was not a motion picture actor, but a stage actor.

At present, Mr. Beban is in California to make arrangements for a tour with his new picture, "The Greatest Love of All," he said yesterday. The picture is in nine reels, but the chief scene will be played by a company of actors on the stage. For this scene, Mr. Beban said, he has engaged twenty-four members of the Actors' Equity in New York. He didn't take motion-picture people," he said, "because I decided it would be easier to train the actors, who have had previous experience on the stage and possess good voices, than to teach motion-picture actors and actresses to express themselves in a new medium."

Earl H. Laughlin yesterday received notice of his election to membership in the American Institute of Accountants, a national organization composed of practicing accountants. Membership in the Institute is highly prized, as it is this body which sets up and maintains professional standards, and which originated the examination for certified public accountants now in use in thirty-four States.

OFF ON ORIENT TRADE TOUR
C. M. Gordon of Chamber Will Compile Market Data to Aid Commerce for Southland

Commercial relations between Los Angeles and oriental ports will be greatly enhanced through the action of the local Chamber of Commerce in sending Christopher M. Gordon, a local trade expert, to the Orient to make a trade survey for local business men.

Mr. Gordon sailed from the local harbor on the steamer Yale of the Los Angeles Steamship Company's fleet to make connection with the Trans-Pacific ship West Prospect, which will depart from San Francisco later this week.

The itinerary of the trade expert will include stops at all important industrial and commercial cities in Japan, China, the Philippines and Korea.

These surveys, containing data bearing on market conditions, will be returned to the Los Angeles chamber and disseminated to business men and manufacturers.

THE BIG MONEY
 They are paying as high as $400 and $500 an acre for grapes in the vineyard. Growers who were going bankrupt when prohibition hit them are surely going down with flying colors.

OH, DOCTOR!
 William Gibbs McAdoo excuses John W. Davis's Wall-street associations by the statement that a lawyer is not to be measured by his clients any more than a doctor would be by his patients. That may be true, but there are a lot of fashionable and high-priced specialists in the medical profession to whom the average man in the streets would hate to carry his bellyache.

KNOCKING ONE ANOTHER
 A woman explorer who but recently returned from the wilds says that the modern city girl is merely a dancing doll. She is a creature of the bright lights and she knows more of the night life than of the day. She may have vitality, but it is stimulated and not real. If the future of the race were dependent upon such we would soon become decadent. That's what the lady lion-tamer says. It is tough when women begin showing us another up.

DOUBLE-CROSSING
 Some of the leaders in the so-called Farmer-Labor party insist that they were double-crossed when the workers nominated William Z. Foster as their Presidential choice. Some of the Socialists also consider themselves double-crossed at the nomination of La Follette by their own class. The various groups of radicals were bound to fall out, anyhow. A political plank cannot agree with himself, let alone anybody else. La Follette admittedly represents merely a lost cause.

THE VICTIM
 Senator Walsh was the pilot of the oil investigation and there was just enough of the smut applied to William Gibbs McAdoo to give his rivals a chance to sound the alarm. There is no doubt whatever that but for the insinuation enough delegates would have been gathered to assure the nomination of the Californian. The principal result of the Congressional gulf has therefore been to crush the ambitions of the country's foremost Democrat—and that without accomplishing any known good.

SOMETHING ON WHEELS
 There are said to be more bicycles actually in use today than in the days when society was riding them and bicycle clubs were found in every town. Even Henry Ford's passion for great wealth has been unable to put the two-wheeler with its leg power out of commission. The American people simply must have something on wheels and after they get through with roller skates the bicycle is the next step. In Denmark there are twenty times as many bicycles as autos and the country is not as rotten as it used to be, at that.

SING SING WAY
 A Federal judge says that Sing Sing is fast becoming a popular resort. The prisoners have a baseball league of their own, with a regular schedule of games, and they have movie and vaudeville shows every night or two. Besides all this lectures and entertainers make special trips to the prison to exhibit their wares. The press agent takes care of them and the entire management smacks of the show business. This may be all right, but it shatters some of the old-fashioned ideas about making the punishment fit the crime. However, it must be remembered that Sing Sing is a couple of songs, anyhow.

WHAT WOULD MALTHEUS SAY?
 Recent estimates place the total number of the earth's inhabitants at 1,700,000,000. About one in fifteen of these reside in the United States. Moreover, the world's population has doubled in the last 100 years and promises to do better in the next 100. This in spite of wars and famines and plagues in various parts of the earth. And modern humanitarian science is everywhere prolonging and saving life. Yet we need not turn with gloomy forebodings to the prophecies of Malthus. New and better ways for sustaining the body, the development of untapped natural resources and the elimination of waste are more than keeping pace with the increase of population.

CLEANING THE SLATE
 If there are no more wars and the program of thrift and economy originated by the existing administration is maintained the country will shed the last ounce of its World War burden in thirty years. As it stands today this debt aggregates $21,250,000,000. During the last fiscal year it was scaled down more than $1,000,000,000—which is probably a greater accomplishment than any future year can record. The present program of reduction is being worked out without any coherent connection with the indebtedness of France and Italy to this country. Payments upon this obligation might lessen our own years of debt-paying. But, so far as the world is concerned, it will take a full fifty years to wipe out the financial stains left by its military debauch.

THE END IS NOT YET
 Recent conferences and events in Europe bring to mind the biblical narrative of the flight of the Israelites from Egypt during the time of the Pharaohs. For a year and a half the French mailed fist has been on the throat of Germany. Three British Premiers have sought to have some of the drastic provisions of the Treaty of Versailles modified in order that the German people might get back on a sound financial and industrial basis. But the French Premiers have adhered firmly to their resolve that the Germans must "make bricks without straw."

The Dawes report set forth very clearly that before Germany could pay it must be permitted to place itself in a financial and industrial position where it would be able to pay. The British government accepted this report without reservations. Premier Herriot attempted to do likewise; but such a clamor was raised in the French Parliament and press that his support in the French Chamber crumbled and his downfall is predicted by many.

The French people will not consent that the iron grip on Germany's throat shall be loosed. They demand that their government shall not let the Germans go. As the date for the conference over putting into effect the terms of the Dawes report approaches it becomes more apparent that the differences between the British and French governments have not been composed. It is not even certain that the conference will be held; and the French are still protesting that it would be a disgraceful surrender for the French government to consent to holding the conference in London.

In a recent dispatch Eugene Young very aptly writes that:
 The truth is that Herriot and MacDonald, whatever may be their personal desire to effect a real settlement, both are afraid of their Parliaments and they dare not depart from the beaten track pursued by the Premiers who have preceded them. Neither has a real majority behind him on any forward policy in foreign relations; and a step off the beaten path would be likely to bring about the downfall of their Cabinets and upset domestic programs on which both set great store.

The British House of Commons is almost unanimously in favor of a modification of certain terms of the Versailles Treaty which relate to reparations. Its members are convinced that there can be no reconstruction until Germany regains at least a part of its industrial independence. If MacDonald agrees to support France in its present position he cannot hope to maintain his government, which at present represents only a minority of a minority.

But it is already apparent that Herriot cannot accede to the desires of the French government and maintain his present position in the government at home.

Perhaps similar influences caused the Pharaoh to change his mind so often about freeing the children of Israel. The Israelites performed labor for the Egyptians. They were captives or slaves, and exploitation was doubtless very profitable to Egyptian industry. In these things the world is not so far from the Egypt of the Pharaohs as we sometimes imagine. Political relations have not been entirely modified during the thousands of years that intervene.

The sufferings of the Israelites awakened no compassion in the Egyptians. It was not until their own first-born were sacrificed, that they were filled with a fear of total extermination, that the Israelites were permitted to depart. And, at the last moment, the Israelites used what might be termed German diplomacy in robbing their masters.

It is equally apparent that France will not release the occupied German territory unless it is plainly apparent that the very existence of France is imperiled by holding it longer. But for the collapse of the French franc the French would not have so much as considered accepting the Dawes recommendations. Now they have partly recovered from their financial fright and their hearts are again hardened.

Herriot seems to appreciate the folly of longer occupation of the Ruhr; but it is not appreciated by a majority of the French people. As The Times formerly said about Poincaré, if he were to give an order tomorrow withdrawing the French troops his government would fall the day after and a new government would again grasp in its mailed fist the industries of Germany.

However regrettable it may appear, the stubborn fact remains that the hearts of the French people are as hardened against Germany as the hearts of the Egyptians against the Israelites. Conditions in Europe are deplorable; but it is apparent that the end is not yet.

THE LONG ROAD SUREST
 A few years ago our institutions of higher learning were criticized on the ground that they emphasized the classical and the scientific and correspondingly failed to prepare the student for practical life. Since then business courses have been added and, in the case of the western universities especially, study of truth and wisdom for culture's sake has been relegated to the background.

As a result of this policy Mr. F. B. Jewett, vice-president of the Western Electric Company, asserts that, although his factory as well as many others maintain huge laboratories for the solving of problems connected with the industry, they have not sufficient trained men to handle them. The reason is lack of experts endowed with the proper scientific spirit.

Young men of scientific turn of mind who have been graduated from the universities have received a practical business training, but have not been taught to interest themselves in abstract principles. Colleges have become workshops.

It seems that the pendulum has swung too far to the practical side. The fault is not all with the colleges; for the material rewards during the last quarter of a century have gone to those who specialized in the practical courses. Men actually engaged in making the wheels of industry go around now march faster, on the average, than the recusers of the labor force.

Universities attempted to help the business life of the country and now the great businesses are the first to complain of the results. The scientific spirit has died out; according to business organizations, and youth no longer attempts to solve questions merely for the pleasure derived from succeeding in a difficult endeavor. Today the young want financial rewards, and want them immediately.

CHECK ON THE VICE
 It is boldly asserted that if we should elect a woman Vice-President of our country vice would not only be controlled, but gradually suppressed.

Signor Mussolini Changes His Tune

(Protected by George Matthew Adams.)

WHO OWNS THE AIR?

The habit indulged in by many European countries of sending out propaganda and publicity via the radio is causing considerable irritation. While the Bolsheviks have been the most consistent offenders in this respect, the other countries have been by no means guiltless. As a result of this practice the chancelleries of Europe will be called upon to settle in the near future the question of the ownership of the air. In other words, is the ether around France as French as the soil of the country itself? Is any nation broadcasting ideas antagonistic to the government guilty of an unwarranted invasion?

Countries that are open to the accusation of exploiting others have been particularly active in dressing up their intentions and broadcasting them into the territory involved. The Japanese have increased their hold on Manchuria in this manner, and the French have strengthened their position in Indo-China through radio propaganda.

Our benevolent Uncle Sam is soon to erect powerful stations on the Chinese mainland, not for purposes of condoning intended aggression, to be sure, but, possibly, to get the population into a suitable frame of mind for a peaceful commercial penetration. To this the Japanese object, claiming that the broadcasting of Yankee commercial propaganda via the radio is violating their "sphere of influence." The matter appears foolish on its face, but it is fraught with serious possibilities.

One of the rich bits of sardonic humor, indulged in formerly by disgruntled folk, that there was nothing left that was free but the air, is now out of date. The time is coming more rapidly than one had suspected when air will be a government reserve, and alien propagandists had best have a care how they use it. Fantastic are the results of some of our modern scientific achievements.

LITERARY MILLINERS
 Literary milliners are now necessary at our national convention. Their task is to describe the costumes of the lady delegates. When a woman attends a political convention the incident has a social angle. Therefore it seems to be imperative that the reporter describe her hat and gown.

Nobody thinks of saying that Dooley wore a striped shirt and a double chin, but if Mrs. Dooley is a delegate it must be told that she had a one-piece georgette dress and a blue bonnet. Now that women participate in politics on equal terms with the men the social gossip of a national gathering is quite extensive. That is where the literary milliners come in.

In olden days the candidate came to the convention with a little grip containing his nightshirt and a private bottle. Now he brings his wife and eight trunks. The women are not only delegates, but they are frequently candidates, and what a lady candidate wears is an important item. Therefore, the papers today have their share of the fashion gossip of the gathering.

The spotlight of the convention are turned upon the private boxes in which the wives and daughters of the candidates are doing their share in advancing the family fortunes. They are showing that they can add grace and dignity to the scene and, if greatness is to come to their household, they are proving that they can dress and carry their own part with color and charm. Politics calls for team work. A smart and competently dressed wife can help the husband over the hurdles in a wonderful way.

So it is that in the party conventions of the present day the papers carry a lot of frothy but entertaining chatter about the women delegates and visitors; what they wear and what they are doing to entertain themselves and others in a social way. This new and popular note is a pleasant relief from the coarse details of political embroilment.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Democracy at the Door

The Japanese Prince Regent and his wife went to pay their homage at the tomb of their imperial ancestors, and through the medium of Shinto priests, announced to the spirits their recent wedding. At the same time the Prime Minister of Japan called in the leading Christian ministers of all denominations to ask them their cooperation in the administration of affairs in the country, which at the present time is nearing a serious crisis. It was the first time Christians, as such, had been consulted on the affairs of the empire. The Premier seemed most concerned over what he termed "dangerous thought." There will be far less "dangerous thought" if the Premier decides to allow the people of Japan some say in the government.

Interlocking Directorates

Despite the assurances of the soviet government of desisting from carrying on revolutionary propaganda in the British Empire in return for official recognition by the Labor government of Britain, dispatches have been seized which gave definite instructions to the Communist leaders in Britain to stir the masses into rebellion, especially in Ireland. The dispatches were signed by Karl Radek. Protest on the part of Premier MacDonald will be of no avail, for the Bolsheviks will get out of the difficulty by saying that the propaganda is not carried on at the instigation of the Russian government, but by the executive officers of the Third International, which has its headquarters in Moscow. The strange part of it is that these officers are also the Cabinet ministers in the soviet republic.

Which Is True?

The German Minister of War emphatically contradicts press dispatches appearing in American, French and English newspapers that the fatherland is increasing its armed forces. On the same day he made that statement an organization was launched in the fatherland which attracted 100,000 members the first few days of its existence. These 100,000 swore that they would defend with their lives the German republic against the threats of the monarchist and Junker organization. "The chief danger to our country," says the manifesto of this body, "the ever-increasing number of military and semimilitary organizations. Besides being aimed at the destruction of the republic, they bring about the gravest danger that Germany shall lose what little confidence she has in Europe."

RIPLING RHYMES

EXERCISE

Along the path by coombe and strath, by floss and for I journey; I climb the hills and leap the rills and cross the hollow fern. The Old Doe said, "You'll soon be dead if you remain so sluggish; you can't escape the bier and craps by taking snuff. You cannot dodge the bonny lodge by sleep and meditation, but you must tramp until you're damp with honest perspiration." I sadly romp by mere and swamp and walk beside the rivers, and envy jays who go their ways in limousines and flyers. I walk and run beneath the sun, I chase when rain is pelting; I labor hard and feel the lad upon my person melting. I journey home all flecked with foam and feeling like a martyr; I've sprained my thighs and torn my shoes and spoiled a costly garter. I've skinned my nose and wrenched my toes, my weariness is shocking, and I decide that I will ride and cut out all the walking. The Old Doe comes; "Ods bones," he hums, "I see your health is mending; tomorrow walk from nine o'clock until the daylight's ending." "This life," I say, "is bright and gay, to quit I'm unwilling, but better far a grave afar than all this futile drilling. Far better sleep some ten feet deep where mortal ashes mingle than sprain my knees on verdant leas, by fen and copse and dingle."

LETTERS TO The Times

"Compromising Principle"

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have just finished reading in this morning's Times the interesting editorial, "Compromising Principle." I think it quite correct in name. When I read in your paper a day or two ago that the patrons of the summer concert at the far-famed Hollywood Bowl were to be regaled by music made at the hands of a 100-per-cent "unlabeled orchestra" I was, to put it mildly, disgusted.

I am a great lover of music and come of a musical family, with a strong strain of Welsh blood in it; it has been my privilege to hear a great deal of the world's best music, as interpreted by the best musicians of our time; but I solemnly declare that if I never listen to another symphony orchestra again, so long as I live, I shall not demean myself by attending any of the "unlabeled" concerts in the Hollywood Bowl this summer.

What can the directors and managers of that wonderful place be thinking of to meekly submit to the demands of the American Federation of Labor? "This Moscow in our midst!" MARY MENDENHALL PERKINS.

Power Shortage

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I take leave to suggest the following scheme for alleviating or entirely doing away with the present power shortage in California.

There are at the present moment a large number of steamers laid up in eastern ports on account of the shipping depression. Some of these ships are of considerable horsepower, 10,000 to 15,000. They could be chartered for a nominal sum, brought round to California through the Panama Canal and moored at San Pedro, San Francisco, etc., and their engines used to drive dynamos. They would thus practically be floating power stations.

They need not be chartered for more than a few months and when the power situation became normal again the ships could be sent back to the East, having served their purpose.

The idle ships are the property of the United States government, which would doubtless accept a nominal sum for their charter as they are useless at present and as they would serve a public or semi-national purpose if used to diminish the electric power shortage.

Another advantage of this scheme is that it might obviate, to some extent, the construction of expensive reserve steam power stations, to be used in case of drought or power shortage. Ships are always available and the above scheme could be put into force at any time in the future as soon as a drought or power shortage seemed imminent.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

One of the most interesting events of the week in local society is the wedding tomorrow at high noon of Miss Gwendolen Grindrod Farish and Charles Frederick Noyes, Jr., which will take place in the picturesque little Church of the Angels, Garvanza, Rev. Ray U. Miller of St. James's Church officiating.

The church will be exquisitely decorated with a profusion of flowers and foliage, and Frank M. Howell, Jr., will give his sister-in-law in marriage at the altar rail. There will be no guests, and the ceremony will be witnessed by relatives and a few most intimate friends only. The bride will be lovely in a Boue Souters gown with picture hat to correspond and she will carry an armful of white orchids, gardenias and lilies of the valley. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. Noyes and his bride will leave for a brief wedding trip to the north in their automobile, and after August 1, will make their home in Los Angeles.

Miss Farish is the younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Farish of this city and sister of Mrs. Frank M. Howell, Jr., a Muriel Farish with whom she has made her home since the death of her parents. She was graduated from Marlborough and is a Lambda Theta Phi sorority member. Since the announcement of her engagement to Mr. Noyes, she has been the guest of numerous charmingly arranged affairs and there will be a number of parties given for her after her return from the wedding trip. Mr. Noyes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Noyes, and a graduate of the University of California, returning to the United States after the war. He is now in the United States Navy and is given a commission as ensign. After the war he did not re-enter college but had established himself in business here.

FIRST LINK OF ROAD IS NOW OPEN

Mulholland Way Between Laurel and Stone Vales
Ready for Autos

That portion of the Mulholland Highway between Laurel and Stone canyons now is open to motorists, according to a statement yesterday by Dwight L. Rayborn, chief engineer in charge of construction on that scenic drive. This stretch of road is six and a half miles long and winds along the crest of the Santa Monica mountain range between West Hollywood and the district adjacent to the Hollywood Country Club.

The second section of the highway to be thrown open to the public will be between Ventura Boulevard and Tarzana, about seven and a half miles. This is expected to be ready for automobiles about September, according to Engineer Rayborn.

The Mulholland Highway will run for about twenty-five miles along the mountain ridge from the Griffith Park to Ventura Boulevard. At present six camps with steam fountains are working for its completion.

Church Wedding
The Little Church of Flowers, Glendale, was the setting for a beautifully appointed wedding the 4th inst., when Miss Gertrude Oilman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Weber of Harlowton, Mont., became the bride of Edwin W. Macum, Jr., Rev. E. W. Macum father of the bridegroom, officiating. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Lynn M. Hesse, sister of Mr. Macum, sang "At Dawning" and Miss Winnifred Patton of Basin, Wyo., sang several selections. The bride wore a becoming gown of white crepe de chine and lace and carried a shower bouquet of roses and ferns. Her veil was caught to her head by lilies of the valley. Mrs. Hesse assisted as matron of honor and Harlow Weber served Mr. Macum as best man. Miss Alice Weber was bridesmaid and Rollo Hesse was groomsmen. The bride and her parents are frequent visitors to Southern California and have passed many winters in Sawtelle. After a wedding trip to San Diego, California, and other points of interest in Southern California they will make their home in Sawtelle.

For Visitors
Honoring Miss Ruby Rogaway and Miss Leona Platt of San Francisco, who are visiting in Los Angeles, Mrs. Edward Altman entertained with a luncheon at her home in Argyle avenue. The decorations were carried out with pink sweet peas while the favors and place cards were the same color. Bridge and music were played after luncheon. Other out-of-town guests included Mrs. M. Platt and Miss Barry of San Francisco and Mrs. P. Lewis of New York. The hostess was assisted by her niece, Miss Lillian Harris. Mrs. Altman is one of the brides of the season, and was formerly Miss Berne Appelton of San Francisco, her wedding in the northern city being one of the events of June 1.

MRS. MERRITT TAKES DIVORCE SUIT APPEAL
The decision of Judge Burke denying a divorce to either Lewis N. Merritt or Mrs. Ella E. Merritt, wealthy Pasadena woman who charged each other with cruelty, has been appealed, it became known when Mrs. Merritt appeared before Judge Guerin and obtained an order for temporary alimony and counsel fees pending trial of her appeal. She was awarded $500 counsel fees, $200 for costs and alimony of $100 per month by stipulation in which Merritt acquiesced.

TRICHINOSIS
Recently there have been eight cases of Trichinosis reported by the health officers of Connecticut, and I think we had better have a paper on the subject. Trichinosis is a disease caused by a tiny round worm known as the trichinella spiralis (because they curl in a spiral), or simply Trichina. The animals most often infected are man, swine and rats. It is very common in rats. Swine get it from eating the infected carcasses of other infected swine. Man gets it by eating underdone infected meat of swine. According to the statistics, about 1 to 2 per cent of the swine are infected; other authorities think the percentage is much higher. Germany used to furnish the most cases of Trichinosis because Germans are fond of rare pork and sausages. The reports say they do not have many cases now because of their rigid meat inspection laws. The orthodox Jews, Hindus and Turks who never eat pork, are never troubled with this disorder.

The worms in the flesh of the infected animals lie dormant in little capsules of fibrous tissue which Nature builds around them in an effort to wall them in, to prevent harm to the system. When you eat infected meat, these little fibrous capsules are digested and the worms are set free in the intestines. Here they mate and thousands and perhaps millions of embryos are hatched. They cause an intense diarrhea and many of them escape through the bowel movements. Those that do not escape, bore their way through the walls of the intestines, get into the circulation and distribute themselves around the body, especially in the muscle tissue. Here Nature does just as it does in the case of swine or rats—builds little fibrous capsules around them and they are settled there for life. You can't shake 'em, no matter what you do. Your symptoms would depend upon the number of embryos settling down. Death results in about 20 per cent of the cases reported.

Mother Slimkins Taken to Task for Her Run-down Condition and Given Advice

BY WINIFRED STUART GIBBS,
Food Specialist

"There's no getting round it, Mother Slimkins, you are letting yourself run down!" Mother Fedwell was quite severe and her words made poor Mother Slimkins flush.

"I know it," she answered. "But the fact is that I have been so worried over the children, and so busy trying to get Sam built up, that I am afraid I have been neglecting myself."

"Suppose we come down to business," said Mother Fedwell. "I know without asking that you are considerably underweight, and I can also guess without asking that you have been troubled with constipation."

"Indeed, you are right on both points," was the somewhat rueful response. "I am fifteen pounds under weight and have been suffering with constipation."

"This was enough for Mother Fedwell. She at once called her 'fighting face' and responded instantly to the challenge to battle against undernourishment."

"I know exactly what you should do," were the next words to Mother Slimkins.

"You must have good meat soups, chicken with rice, tapioca, cereals and vegetables; these are for dinner and on alternate days you must have cream soups made with equal parts of strained vegetable pulp and thickened milk."

"As to meat, I am going to see that you eat chopped raw beef in thin dainty bread and butter sandwiches. I shall question you severely as to whether you have for your dinner broiled or chopped steak or broiled roast mutton or lamb. Roast chicken will also be part of the program.

"Before we leave the body-building foods, I am also going to see that you eat fresh fish on the days that you do not have meat, and that you have at least one egg every day. I feel perfectly safe in making these suggestions, because you have often told me that your digestion was perfect."

"Now we come to another important group of foods, that is, the leafy vegetables. Many persons do not realize that in a fattening diet the green vegetables are fully as important as the so-called fattening foods. You must have spinach, chard, asparagus, string beans and all other leafy vegetables."

"As to starchy foods, baked, mashed and boiled potatoes, with whole wheat cereals, macaroni and hominy."

"Starchy desserts may be used cautiously, but fruit desserts are still better. Treat yourself to egg custards, whipped cream desserts, jellies, honey and preserves."

"Your breakfast fruit will be either orange, grapefruit, peaches, pears, apricots, grapes, cherries or berries."

"In giving a fattening diet we have purposely been long in coming to the fatty foods. My reason is this: Fatty foods in themselves are very apt, taken even slightly in excess, to be constipating. This is because fat tends to delay digestion, and in this way causes trouble in the intestines."

"On the other hand, the fatty foods are important, and if you

Helps for Epicures and All Who Appreciate Good Cooking

(Note—This department is conducted for the benefit of readers of The Times. The information herein contained will help in the selection of food and in the preparation of dishes. It is not intended to replace the services of a chef or a cook, but to give a few hints and suggestions to those who are interested in the art of cooking.)

SWISS STEAK
E. W. N. Los Angeles, asks for instructions for preparing Swiss steak.

Have the butcher cut a steak weighing about two pounds, two and a half inches thick from the round of beef; season with salt and pepper and pound into it with a potato masher or the edge of a heavy plate half a cupful of flour. Heat two tablespoons of rendered lard fat in an iron frying pan. Lay in the steak and brown nicely on both sides; add to the pan half of a sliced onion, one chopped green pepper, one cupful of water, and one cupful of strained tomatoes. Cover the pan tight, and set in a moderate oven for two hours. Lift out the steak onto a hot platter and pour over the gravy from the pan.

COOKED EGGS
A. P. E. Los Angeles, follows Chef Wyman's "Suggestions For Tomorrow's Menu," which are published daily in The Times and she wants to know what we mean when we suggest cooked eggs.

To prepare cooked eggs place the required number of eggs in a bowl, cover with boiling water, cover the bowl and let stand four or five minutes. Coddled eggs are nicer than boiled eggs.

Cures Warming
Should the ironing board warp and prove annoying, put the cover on the other side. In a short time the board will straighten out and remain straight.

BLACKBERRY JUICE
H. D. M. Hollywood, sends a stamp and asks that we send her a recipe for preserving blackberry juice.

We do not send recipes by mail. All requests are answered in these columns in the order that they are received.

The best way to preserve blackberry juice is to make a Creole syrup. This is made by mashing about four quarts of washed, picked and stemmed blackberries, place in a bowl, cover tight with a cloth and set on the ice for thirty-six hours; pour into a jelly bag and press out all of the juice. Place in a sauce pan three cupfuls of water and four cupfuls of sugar, stir until the sugar is dissolved, bring to a boil and boil until it will spin a thread when a little is dropped from the tip of a spoon. Add six cupfuls of the strained blackberry juice to the boiling syrup, boil five minutes, remove from the fire, cool, bottle, seal and store in a cool dark place.

BLACKBERRY CORDIAL
For an invalid we would recommend that blackberry cordial be made if the doctor will furnish the brandy necessary.

Place four quarts of cleaned blackberries in a clean sauce pan, mash with wooden potato masher, heat slowly, do not boil and do not add any water. After the berries are thoroughly heated strain and measure into a kettle, for each four cupful of juice add one cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, one teaspoonful of ground cinnamon, and two teaspoonfuls of nutmeg. Bring to a boil and boil fifteen minutes; strain through a cloth, cool and add for each quart of syrup one cupful of good brandy. Bottle, seal and store in a cool dark place. Dose: A wine glassful before meals.

SEASONING VINEGAR
D. K. Los Angeles, wants to know how to make a seasoning vinegar used by some chefs for seasoning sauces and gravies.

Place a wide-mouthed bottle one crushed clove of garlic, three chopped boned anchovies, one tablespoonful of cayenne pepper, one and a half teaspoonfuls of Japanese soy, one and a half tablespoonfuls of mushroom catsup, and two cupfuls of vinegar. Let stand thirty days, shaking often, strain through a thick cloth, bottle and seal. Two teaspoonfuls of this vinegar will flavor two cupfuls of sauce of gravy.

MINT SHERBET
E. M. Pasadena, asks for a recipe for mint sherbet.

Place one bunch of washed mint in a bowl and bruise with a potato masher, add two cupfuls of boiling water and let stand twenty minutes; strain through a cloth into a saucepan, add one and a half cupfuls of sugar, bring to a boil and boil ten minutes; remove from the fire, cool, add the strained juice of three oranges, one cupful of pineapple juice, and one cupful of white grape juice. Pour into a freezer, pack with three parts crushed ice and one part rock salt; when half frozen add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and finish freezing.

BISQUES OF PIMENTOS
H. L. M. Los Angeles, wants to repeat the recipe for pimiento bisque given in the daily menus some time ago.

Place half a cupful of washed rice in a double boiler, add six cupfuls of seasoned chicken stock and cook until the rice is soft; rub all through a sieve into a clean saucepan, add six pimientos that have been rubbed through a sieve, one teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of tabasco sauce, a few grains of mace, and a little paprika. Bring to a boil, add the slightly beaten yolks of two eggs mixed with half a cupful of cream and serve in bouillon cups with croutons or toasted crackers.

DRESSING FOR FIFTY
R. S. Los Angeles, is serving fruit salad for fifty the last of this week and she asks that we supply a recipe for a cucumber dressing, using some whipped cream in it.

Mix two tablespoonfuls of salt with one and a half tablespoonfuls of mustard, five tablespoonfuls of sugar, five tablespoonfuls of flour, and one teaspoonful of paprika; add to these four well beaten eggs, mix well and pour on slowly, stirring all the time, three and a half cupfuls of hot milk; mix well, place in a double boiler and stir and cook until thick. Remove from the fire and stir in four tablespoonfuls of butter broken in small bits and three-quarters of a cupful of lemon juice. Cool and fold in one and a half cupfuls of whipped cream.

PEACH JAM
C. O. Burbank, wants to know how to make peach jam.

Peel and stone the peaches, weigh, add to them an equal amount of sugar and half a cupful of water for each pound of fruit. Bring slowly to a boil, stirring often, and simmer for

DATE SET FOR HEATING ARROYO PARK PROJECT

The City Council will consider on the afternoon of the 31st inst., the proposal that 160 acres of land in the Arroyo Seco between Avenue 35 and Avenue 57 be purchased, either by negotiation or condemnation, for park development. The land is now owned by the Los Angeles Rock and Gravel Company, the operations of which have long been opposed by the residents of that section. The land is expected to cost about $150,000, which will be paid for by an assessment district, if the Council finally approves of the plan.

The cars were seized from persons convicted of violating the Volstead Act, and they include two trucks, one taxicab, one limousine, three touring cars and three coupes. Tomorrow morning at Port San Luis, Marshal Sittel will sell the B169, a gasoline launch seized from run runners.

SUGGESTIONS ON NUTRITION

List of Pointers Given for Those Who Want Well and Keep Well

Remember that among the well-to-do there are those who eat too much and those who eat too little. Of that first is greater. In other words it works more health to over eat than to fall slightly below in eating.

It is important to remember that do with the conditions in dieting for certain conditions that the individual and his peculiarities must be taken into consideration. No theoretical diet will fit every case, although a theoretical diet planned according to accepted standards is the best starting point in any diet plan.

The function of fatty foods is divided between producing energy and in regulating the temperature of the body. A definite portion of fat gives more than twice as much energy in the form of heat as does the same quantity of starch.

Water and mineral salts help to build the cells of the body and they also help to keep the different parts of the body in proper working order.

Remember that digestion is two types—the first physical, such as the grinding of the food in the mouth, the peristaltic action in the stomach and the elimination of waste by the bowels. The other type is more complicated and is what we call chemical. This has to do with the breaking down of the food into its constituent parts.

NOTES ON NUTRITION

Given for Those Who Would Well and Keep Well

Among the well-to-do there are more and more who eat too little. Of the two extremes it works more havoc with the body to fall slightly below in normal conditions than to do with the action of the digestive fluids and the action of the stomach in the day's diet plan. It must be a faded appetite indeed that does not respond to a thoroughly chilled cantaloupe at breakfast! The melon makes a delicious first course for luncheon or dinner; while served with a brimming center of ice cream there is no more delicious summer dessert.

We are told that the term, cantaloupe, is applied particularly to the smaller forms of melon, those which are also sometimes classed as belonging to the nutmeg variety. It is these latter that are supposed to be musk-scented, hence the other name for the melon, muskmelon.

It is interesting to read that "market" styles are constantly changing.

The growing of varieties of melon is interesting and an extraordinary large number of varieties has resulted.

The flesh of a cantaloupe should be smooth, soft without being mushy, and thick rather than watery. The dark green of the inner rind is in some varieties the dividing line between the edible portion and rind; on the other hand, one recalls various melons where every bit, even of the green flesh, could be eaten.

Cantaloupes adorn our national markets during the late summer and early autumn; our western and southern cousins, however, may enjoy them even as early as May.

Now as to food value.

Like other varieties of melon, we find cantaloupe with a large percentage of water. From the standpoint of actual body-building, they are, of course, low, containing only a fraction of a per cent of protein, fat and only a small portion of starchy material. It is when we come to consider their mineral salts, however, that melons really begin to shine.

FACTS ABOUT CANTALOUPE

Popular Melon Found in Many Varieties and Value as Food is Rated High

The true epicure responds to the aroma of a perfectly ripe cantaloupe with many anticipations. There is something about the delicate, yet spicy, flavor of this refreshing fruit that fills in many an empty niche in the day's diet plan. It must be a faded appetite indeed that does not respond to a thoroughly chilled cantaloupe at breakfast! milk contain iron? Can a person that is anemic ever get good rich blood? Any advice from you will surely be appreciated, and I thank you in advance.—E.

Indeed, tonics are expensive; that money had best be put into good, wholesome, nourishing foods to build up your body. I am very glad to give you the following suggestion:

While milk contains very little iron, that which it does contain is most valuable. It is also believed that other foods and minerals seem to be more economically and advantageously used when milk is taken. I strongly advise you to continue the use of milk, a quart a day, part of which may be butter-milk if you like it. In addition, red meats, egg yolk, spinach, all kinds of greens (dandelion, grape, chard, etc.), asparagus, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, chard, eggplant, lettuce, fish, oysters, beans and peas, fresh pineapple, potatoes, radishes, raisins, rhubarb, shredded wheat, squash, strawberries, tomatoes, turnips, beets. For iron, oatmeal, whole wheat, graham, wheat bran. For sweets, raisins, dates, prunes, figs, and the old-fashioned gingerbreads and such simple desserts. Almonds are usually relished and are valuable.

much as you can; take enough exercise to make you comfortably tired and hungry; avoid tea and coffee, using cocoa instead, or, better still, milk. Rest a little while before and after eating. Nine hours of sleep or rest in the afternoon, if you can.

Try this for several weeks and let me know how you are. In the meanwhile have your dentist see if your teeth are in good shape and your doctor look after your tonsils. Any infections from these sources should be corrected at once.

There are several kinds of anemia; of course, I cannot tell which kind you have; a competent physician must do that. If it is a case of simple anemia, the list of foods suggested above should be of great help. It is varied enough to suit most tastes and food allowances.

In addition to diet, you must pay attention to those habits of living which make for health. Keep your bowels open—a movement once a day at least. Sleep with your window open; stay in the sunshine as

What is Sweeter Than Honey?

These Bible times, and before, honey has been used as one of Nature's finest foods. Even to modern transportation making the assemblage of delicacies from the far corners of the world a daily fact, nothing has been discovered to equal honey.

It must be good honey. It is not enough that it is pure. Some flowers produce mild, pleasant honey, while others yield nectar that is strong and unpleasant. So discrimination is necessary.

WIGGLY Honey is a combination of the finest flavors which nature produces. Great care is taken to use only the choicest honey, so that the product produced which is always the same, always delicious. Why not try it today? It solves the problem of what to have for breakfast.

Please tell me what is good to get rid of phlegm. What diet is good to give a person who stands much a "poppy" feeling?—F. M.

Avoid all indigestible foods, or those which seem not to agree with you. Such foods usually are greasy, rich or fried foods, as doughnuts, pies, rich cakes, buckwheat cakes, etc. In some instances, smoked meats and fish, alcohol, tea and coffee are injurious. The bowels should be carefully regulated and water taken freely between meals.

I suggest that you select for yourself a diet composed in the main of fresh fruits—apples, oranges, lemons, grapefruit, peaches, pears, melons and strawberries and cherries, only if you find that they agree with you. In addition, eat all the fresh green vegetables, carrots, turnips, tomatoes, rhubarb, whole wheat cereals and breads and drink from a pint to a quart of milk a day. If whole milk is too rich for you, use skim milk or buttermilk. For meats, I would use chicken, white fish, lean meats cooked in any manner, except fried; cottage cheese and eggs. With a quart of milk a day, you can considerably lessen the amount of meat eaten, and with benefit to your condition. Milk and other wholesome foods mentioned above will do more than anything else to give you "that poppy feeling" all of us need to help us through the long days. If the pimples do not disappear as rapidly as you wish, many people find it helpful to take several cakes of yeast daily. These may be taken in fruit juices, and form a really pleasant substitute for soft drinks, which only serve to aggravate this condition.

You realize, of course, that a good skin is dependent upon absolute cleanliness; a pure soap must be used; freedom from infection maintained.

If at the end of a reasonable period you feel that you are not sufficiently benefited, write me again, and I will give you a more strenuous diet, but a very effective one.

I wonder if you would be able to tell me if my system demands something it does not get, for I have a very silly craving for cornstarch. Three years ago when I was to become a mother I wanted cornstarch and rolled oats. I ate plenty of both, as the doctor said it would not harm, as I would give them up after the birth. I did give up oats, but not starch. Last August my second baby was born and still I cannot give it up. If you can advise me I will be truly grateful.—J. H.

I think you are unnecessarily taxing yourself in the exaggerated consumption of cornstarch. You say you eat starchy foods in abundance and that you also have plenty of vegetables and fruits. You evidently know a well-balanced diet, and knowing this I am sure you will be able to overcome this craving. May I suggest that sometimes the most thoughtful of us do not include enough milk in our diet and that the unbalanced system, craving for its natural food, may make queer demands. Try very carefully balancing your menu; include an additional allowance of milk, especially if you are nursing the baby. Try slowly sipping a glass or half a glass of milk or a lemonade, instead of the starch, resolutely all the time against the desire. It certainly is a case of will proving, isn't it? It is usually easier if you have someone to help you, and I am going to consider that you will give me your promise that you will discontinue the cornstarch habit. Others have done such things, and I am sure you can. No one can afford to be a slave to a habit.

Just about a year ago I had a nervous breakdown and the doctor said I was anemic and had very thin blood. I have taken all kinds of iron tonics, but they are so expensive I cannot keep up with them. As I was told that foods containing iron are sometimes a better blood builder than medicines I wonder if you would be so kind as to send me a list of such foods and a good blood builder that I could afford to get. (Told by a Los Angeles Merchant)

"I was losing money... until this man showed me how to make my store pay! Greater profits!"

He walked into my store like a regular customer—made a few small purchases and wandered about, looking at the displays. Then he asked to speak with me privately.

"You're losing money on your hosiery department," he told me bluntly, "but you can double its sales tomorrow if you will follow these suggestions."

And on his recommendation I made changes in the arrangement and display of hosiery. The improvement was obvious.

"Now I suggest that you move that collar display to the back of the store," he continued.

"But that's my busiest department," I protested.

"That's exactly why it should be farther away from the door," explained the stranger. "Then when your customers are walking back to buy a collar, they see your other displays of merchandise. Instead of selling one collar—and there's certainly no profit in a collar sale—you have a chance to sell them shirts, hosiery, belts and other materials as well."

"Where did you get all these ideas," I asked curiously. He handed me his card. "Weber Showcase & Fixture Co." I read. "Store Service Department."

"I thought there was a catch in this," I said. "You're going to sell me some new showcases?"

"No I'm not," he answered quickly. "You can't buy Weber showcase equipment unless you need it—and right now you don't need any. But if you'll arrange your store as I have suggested, your increasing trade will soon make it profitable."

Alienists Say Girl's Malady "Sublimated Egoism"

Content She is Not Insane or Pyromaniac

Give Playa Del Rey Blaze Suppositions

Josephine Barthelmy, 15-year-old girl, who confessed setting the fire that destroyed the Hope Development Home at Playa Del Rey and burned more than a score of the inmates to death last May, is suffering from a psychosis superinduced by "sublimated egoism," alienists who have had the girl under observation reported yesterday to the juvenile probation department. The girl is being held at Juvenile Hall under close detention pending action on an application requesting her commitment to the Sonoma State Home for defective children.

Miss Barthelmy told District Attorney's investigators that she set fire to the Hope school so she could get away from the place. After kindling a blaze in the basement of the old structure, she said, she climbed upstairs and went to bed. She was one of the few who were saved from the holocaust and made her confession after casual remarks she dropped at Juvenile Hall caused officials to suspect her of having knowledge of the origin of the fire.

Alienists, who examined the girl, declared she is not insane or a victim of pyromania. She is classified as a high-grade moron. The scientist said it was their opinion she set the fire solely because she thought she would add to her own comfort by effecting her release from the school.

ANTI-KINK COIN KINKS HOME

Daughter of Late "Madame" Walker, Whose Concoction to Straighten Hair Won Her Renown and Riches, Says Husband Was Friendly With "I. R."

The vast fortune inherited by Lelia Walker Wilson from her mother, the late "Madame" Walker, whose name is a household word among colored people on account of the antiskink hair preparation she discovered, did not make for a happy married life, the daughter declared in a divorce complaint filed yesterday against Dr. Wiley Wilson, proprietor of a large negro sanatorium in the East.

When "Madame" Walker died three years ago she left her entire estate, valued at approximately $1,000,000, to Mrs. Wilson. Affluence meant nothing to her husband, Mrs. Wilson said, except a cause for marital unhappiness. Once she said, they were discussing money matter and Dr. Wilson said: "You shut up before I wipe the ground up with you. Your money won't save you. What does the $27,000 of yours I have spent mean to me? I should have spent $100,000 or $200,000."

Names Left Out Although the complaint mentions numerous women friends, the apparent reluctance to drag the names of the doctor's friends through a divorce court is worthy of notice.

According to Attorney Willis Tyler, who represents Mrs. Wilson, his client has a suit for recovery of $20,000 pending against her husband in New York.

JAPANESE GIFT TO FLYER IS RECEIVED

(SPECIAL DISPATCH) SAN DIEGO, July 14.—A lavishly decorated bamboo box, carved out of a single piece of wood, the gift of the town of Kirishimo, Japan, to Lieut. Lieut. Smith, who was in Japan, received the gift from the Japanese government, and signed by Kashiwa Tashima, head man of Kirishimo, expressed the honor felt by the town at receiving a visit from the American airplane squadron; comments upon the leadership of the United States in world affairs; expresses appreciation of the significance of the flight being led by Lieut. Smith, and carries the best wishes of the town for a successful completion of the flight, and the continued health of the members of the Army's record-seeking team.

It took Virginia several minutes to understand that this machine is not one of the contrivances that have become justly famous for the diminutive pup attached to them, wondering listening to "his master's voice," but she knows now that it's a sure-enough radio, and that what she hears is produced by

TEAMS OF YESTERDAY BREAK UP

Beverly Bayne, of Most Famous of These, in New Picture Saturday

Remember Harold Lloyd and Mildred Davis? Then there was Charlie Chaplin and Edna Purviance; Fatty Arbuckle and Mabel Normand; Harold Lockwood and May Allison; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew; Douglas MacLean and Doris May; Will Rogers and Irene Rich; and the most famous of all was Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne.

All of these famous teams of movie stars are no more. Popularity and the growing importance of film productions separated them in many cases. Death broke others and, in the case of Harold and Mildred, Dan Cupid stepped in and that was that.

Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne (they are Mr. and Mrs. Bushman now, you know) left the screen about two years ago and starred on the stage with great success. But the call of the camera was too loud and they finally succumbed.

"Ben Hur" was to be produced in Rome and Mr. Bushman was sought for the role of Messala and is now over there working in that spectacular production, which is being made by Metro-Goldwyn.

Producers hereabouts put in their bids for the services of Miss Bayne and she finally accepted Warner Brothers' offer to play the featured feminine role in the pictureization of Owen Davis' stage play, "Her Marriage Vow," which is to have its first world showing at the California Theater here on Saturday.

While on the Other Side Two motorists met on a road between Martinville and Franklin. Said motorist No. 1 to motorist No. 2:

"How's the road to Franklin?"

Replied motorist No. 2: "Don't take that road. There's a big mud puddle on one side of the road about two miles on and you can see by the tracks on one side where many an automobile has driven in, but you can't see any tracks on the other side where they have ever got out."—[Indianapolis News.]

LONG BEACH HOLDING ALLEGED ABSCONDER

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent LONG BEACH, July 14.—Declared by Long Beach police to be wanted by the Federal government for absconding with public funds, Clifford Janich, 21 years of age, alias M. F. Barta, was lodged in the City Jail today by Officer W. L. Woodruff.

Arrested last Friday on suspicion of being a Navy deserter, but subsequently released when he produced leave of absence papers good until the 26th inst. made out by M. F. Barta, he was again arrested when it was discovered that his finger-print records corresponded exactly with those of Janich, wanted by the government on a charge of absconding.

Janich is said to have admitted to local police that he is a fugitive from a naval prison, but refuses to tell where he obtained the leave of absence papers belonging to Barta, a sailor from the U.S.S. Tern, who also is on leave.

TODAY MORNING.

BURNS WITH TRUE RELIGIOUS FERVOUR NOW HE IS SAVED

Butte Anglers' Club, Butte, Mont.,
April 3, 1924.
Mr. Strong, Cobb & Co.,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Sir:

Last year you were kind enough to send me two bottles of "Noburn." I am sorry now that I did not keep all of them, as I never found anything which gave me such relief from my rheumatism, which comes, but blisters, and does not improve each season. It not only prevented blisters, but also the pain and discomfort of wind and sunburn. I can honestly praise its efficiency. I have used me three bottles, and am obliged.

Yours sincerely,
D. G. STIVERS,
President.

My application before each exposure and you will get the same result. A harmless liquid quickly cures the burn. It is guaranteed by Strong & Co. of Cleveland, who have been in business for ninety years and sell at all good drug stores.

ALLEN LAW HITS MARRIAGE HERE
Bride-to-be Daughter of Bulgaria ex-King
Countess Hartenau Turned Back at New York
Prospective Bridegroom is Now in Los Angeles

How Uncle Sam's stony-hearted immigration laws sometimes interfere with the course of true love and won't even unbend when a king's daughter is involved was illustrated by a story related yesterday at the Biltmore by Charles E. H. Boesevain of Amsterdam.

When the Countess arrived in New York, however, she was turned back at the immigration office. The immigration officials, who are now in the process of forming the quota of Austrians permitted to enter this country under the present law was already exhausted. No explanation as to the circumstances of the case was sufficient to soften the hearts of the officials and nothing remained for the Countess but to return to her home country, which she did.
